

Fluoridation Controversy Erupts at Council Meeting

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Fluoridation, the smoldering controversy, erupted at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting with four aldermen debating the pros and cons.

The score at this point would appear to be two against fluoridation and two in favor of a more complete airing of the facts.

Alderman Titus B. Sims (R-13th Ward) got things going when he asked City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco to read a letter from Newburgh Mayor George F. McKneally on fluoridation. Newburgh has been fluoridated since 1945. Last month, Sims asked DeCicco to write Mayor McKneally for his assessment of the program in his city.

McKneally termed fluoridation "one of the most successful" public health measures in his city and said that the results of tests "overwhelmingly proved the value of fluoridation." He said reports showed no adverse effects from the addition of fluoride to Newburgh's water system and highly recommended its use.

The chemical was originally added with the aim of preventing tooth decay in children. McKneally said that tooth decay had been reduced by 50 per cent in Newburgh after the addition of fluoride.

McKneally's letter was immediately challenged by Alderman Peter Mancuso (D-12th Ward) who read a publication called Capsule News published in Washington, D.C.

The document stated that the New York State Board of Education made its own comparison studies between Newburgh and Kingston, the latter set up as a control. Newburgh has fluoride, Kingston does not. The Capsule News quoted the State Board of Education as reporting that the teeth of 5,308 children in Kingston were examined and found to have dental defects of 41.4 per cent. A total of 4,969 pupils were examined in Newburgh, the report stated according to the Capsule News with a dental defect rate of 63.2 per cent.

Said Mancuso on the possibility of fluoridating the city's water supply: "We're asking the people to consume something that might be contrary to their systems." He added that he felt he would be violating the constitutional rights of city residents opposed to fluoridation if he voted in favor of it.

Sims took the floor again and said that he was not asking a position on the issue but that he asked to have the letter written to McKneally simply to get the facts. "We should make every effort to get all the facts and information we can on this subject," he said. "We should question the responsible agencies."

Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-10th Ward) wanted to know why Dr. William J. Taylor, County Health Commissioner recommended fluoridation only for the city of Kingston. He said it should be on a county-wide level. Sinsabaugh agreed with Mancuso on depriving persons of their constitutional rights by voting for the measure and said it should be put to a public referendum.

John Finch (D-Fifth Ward) said he had asked Dr. Taylor why he hadn't initially recommended fluoridation for the entire county and said that the health commissioner told him that he had plans for county fluoridation but that Kingston, which has the largest public water system serving the most persons, would have to be first.

Finch then asked about the Capsule News document read into the record by Mancuso. "Just what is this Capsule News?" he asked. "I know who the mayor of Newburgh is but I don't know anything about this." It was explained by Mrs. Mary Cashara of 43 Stephan Street that it was a fluoridation news letter.

The only other item of legislation that drew any debate was a proposal to change the residency requirements approved in 1961 that forbids any persons living outside the city to serve on the police department.

The new local law will allow the hiring of men living within a radius of 10 miles of the city. The aldermen gave unanimous approval to the committee report. They will vote on the actual change at next month's meeting, following publication of the proposed change in the local law in The Daily Freeman.

Aldermen Mancuso and Finch spoke in favor of the legislation while John Machione (R-Second Ward), although voting for it, decried the fact that the city could no longer get enough men from its own borders to serve on the police force. He said it indicated decay in the city.

In other Common Council action, The Patrolmen's Benevolent Association was designated as the official bargaining agent for the police department from the chief on down. The PBA also signed a no-strike pledge.

The city applied for an advance payment of $123,676 on its proposed secondary sewage treatment plant on the Strand from the State.

The aldermen gave permission to the city treasurer to take out a revenue anticipation for up to $200,000 if needed. The city expects to take in $284,000 between now and the end of the year and it is doubtful if the bond will be used.

Plaza Memorial Inc. was approved as an eligible and qualified redeveloper for the Uptown Urban Renewal Project and a public hearing was set for Oct. 20 at 7:30 p. m. in city hall. The selling price on the approximately 36,000 square feet of land for the construction of a funeral parlor on the corner of Hurley Avenue and Taylor Street was listed at $20,000 by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, owners of the land.

The aldermen also gave city hall architect Albert E. Milliken permission to affect change orders of up to $500 on the new building in Broadway East as long as the total cost did not exceed the budgeted $900,000.

Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo read a communication from Mayor Francis R. Koenig asking the Council to recess on the call of the chair in order to come back later this month and vote on an architect for the Rondout Neighborhood Facility. The mayor told the aldermen that the preliminary plans had been approved by federal officials in New York City. Gallo recessed the meeting.

Indochina Peace Proposals

Nixon: Early Cease-Fire

(Combined Wire Services)

WASHINGTON — President Nixon tonight plans to announce broad new Indochina peace proposals which are understood to call first for an early cease-fire in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

The President will disclose his suggestions, aimed at cracking the lengthy deadlock in the Paris negotiations, on a nationwide television broadcast at 9 p.m. EDT. The proposals will be presented to the Communists at the Paris talks on Thursday.

Nixon told newsmen Tuesday he planned "the most comprehensive statement ever made on this subject" and declared that his proposals should not be brushed off as a "propaganda gimmick."

Officials were unusually tight-lipped concerning details of Nixon's plan. They indicated, however, that in addition to the sweeping cease-fire proposal, he might announce that the U.S. combat role in Vietnam will be ended by the early part of next summer. This goal, although never publicly stated as such, is the objective of Nixon's previously announced troop reductions.

The President's proposals also are expected to call for early consideration of the release of prisoners of war, a subject which the Viet Cong brought up in the revised peace plan it submitted at Paris on Sept. 17. However, the Viet Cong insisted that discussion of captives and work on a political solution to the war could come only after the United States had pledged to have all its troops out of Vietnam by next June 30.

Nixon long ago proposed gradual withdrawal of U.S. and Allied forces over a one-year period if the Viet Cong and Hanoi agreed that all North Vietnamese troops also would leave during that period.

Some diplomats speculated that Nixon would, in effect, turn the latest Viet Cong plan around to make withdrawals and discussion of a political solution contingent upon a cease-fire and prior discussion of the release of prisoners of war.

The administration has been expected to make a move on the Vietnam peace front before next month's elections. Nixon, however, told newsmen Tuesday "We do not consider this to be a propaganda gimmick. We are not saying it simply for the record."

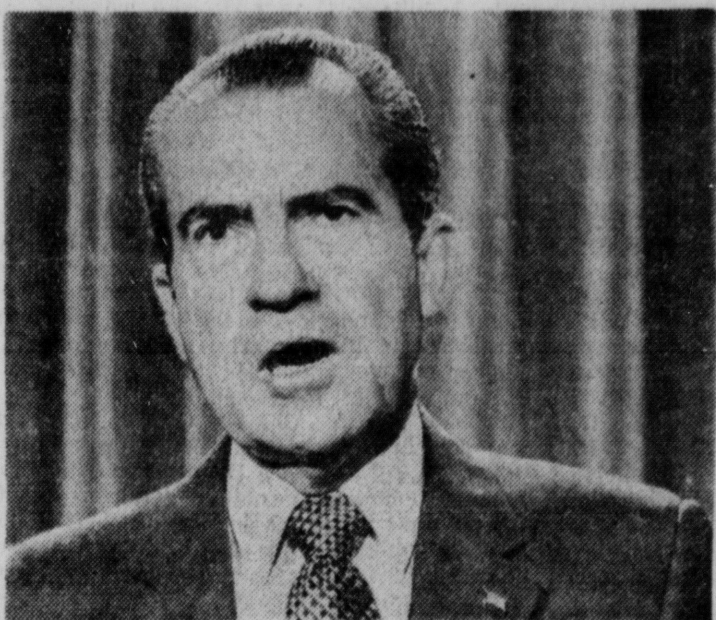

The President arranged to brief the Cabinet at 5 p.m. and legislative leaders of both parties an hour later.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers was assigned to do the same for diplomats from interested foreign governments during the day.

Nixon made his announcement within hours after returning from his nine-day European trip. While in Ireland Sunday, he held a special conference with Bruce and his deputy at the peace talks, Philip Habib.

Following Nixon's announcement, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu summoned Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky home from a European tour, arousing speculation in Saigon that Thieu was unhappy with the new U.S. proposal. Political sources said Thieu called Ky home to consult about a possible public response to the U.S. initiative.

Reds Employ Nausea Gas Against Cambodian Troops

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Communist troops used nausea gas for the first time today in an attack against rear-guard positions of a stalled government offensive. Front dispatches said they also dragged civilians out of hiding and shot them. The attack hit the village of Prakhm, 48 miles north of Phnom Penh and four miles behind the operational front line, UPI correspondent Kate Webb reported from the scene. She said the attack started at midnight behind a barrage of mortars, rockets and heavy weapons fire.

Miss Webb said one of six dead civilians was a young girl, killed when her flimsy palm thatch house received a direct hit from a B40 rocket. A senior field officer said the other civilians were dragged by the hair out of trenches where they were hiding and shot in the head. When the fighting ended at dawn three Cambodian soldiers and six civilians were found dead. More than 20 Cambodian soldiers were wounded but it was not known how many civilians were wounded. The North Vietnamese attack force, estimated at 200 men, left 12 bodies behind.

Late this morning hundreds of civilian refugees streamed from the village southward down Route 6, taking with them their household belongings, cows and water buffaloes. It was a scene reminiscent of the attacks on villages in the war in South Vietnam.

Senior officers said the nausea gas, fired in the warheads of mortars, had made the Cambodians' eyes smart and then made them sick. They said they took a cannister to the main operational control post where it was identified as nausea gas.

Col. Littaye Suon Aime, commander of the rear-guard troops between the operational front line at Tang Kauk, 52 miles north of Phnom Penh, and Skoun, 35 miles northeast of the capital, said the situation behind the front line was not good.

UPI correspondent Barney Seibert reported meanwhile from southwest of the capital that Cambodians were still able to hold Route 4 open to the deepwater seaport of Kompong Son but what the road came under harassing attacks during the night.

The target of the Communist assault was a concentration of Cambodian trucks, buses and light armored vehicles parked bumper to bumper along Highway 6. Viet Cong units also attacked the villages of Svay Meas, 49 miles north of Phnom Penh and Tang Kauk itself, 52 miles north of the capital.

"We survived our most difficult time Tuesday," a Cambodian military spokesman said. "The situation is not serious today."

The Cambodian Command spokesman was referring to an assault Tuesday in which Viet Cong troops attacked the outskirts of Tang Kauk. Only light and scattered action was reported from Vietnam.

Local Fish Market Men Victims of $6,000 Holdup

Agnew in Pittsburgh

Worst Outbreak of Campaign Swing

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Police arrested 39 demonstrators in three clashes outside a downtown hotel in the worst outbreak of dissent directed against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew since his current campaign swing began.

In his speech in the hotel Tuesday night, Agnew softened his criticism of maverick elements in the Republican party, but kept up his fire on Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y. Agnew did not mention the demonstrators.

In the two hours before Agnew spoke, police broke up a flag-burning demonstration and two sidewalk sit-ins. Those arrested included two men charged with burning the American flag, eight juveniles, several women, and two men in a small car accused of trying to run down a policeman.

Policemen broke the windows of the car with billy clubs to get at the driver and a passenger. Both were beaten when they offered resistance. Agnew praised "united diversity" and declared: "A clique that cleaves only to one view is not a political party; it is not an American tradition; it can be no more than a cult incapable and unsuited to lead the nation."

Sen. Charles E. Goodell answers Vice-President Agnew while Gov. Rockefeller asks the White House to keep out of New York politics. Story Page 44.

But he charged that Goodell had used President Nixon as his "private punching bag" and had deliberately alienated himself from the Republican party. Agnew chose the occasion of a GOP fund raising dinner for Sen. Hugh Scott—who has himself been at odds with Nixon on a number of major issues—to tone down his previous headline criticism of dissent party members.

Agnew said Scott's differences differed from those of "radical-liberals" like Goodell because on the major issues like international affairs, national defense, and key domestic issues "he has repeatedly stood by the President—often in the face of intense political pressures from within his own state."

When Agnew arrived at Greater Pittsburgh Airport, he was asked about Scott's support for "Republicans everywhere."

Agnew replied: "Sen. Scott as you know, is the minority leader of the U.S. Senate and he's the mother hen of all Republicans in the Senate. Sometimes it's very difficult for a mother hen to realize she's sitting on a bad egg."

At the dinner, Agnew said that since 1969 Goodell "has sought flamboyantly and ceaselessly to openly divorce himself from our President and from the Nixon administration."

Dynamite Was For Chicago

DANVILLE, Ill. (UPI)—Undercover Treasury agents posing as extremists with a scheme to blow up Chicago's Federal Building and railroad yards have arrested four Danville youths in connection with the seizure of 700 pounds of stolen explosives.

Agents said the youths, members of a downstate Illinois gang, contacted them about trading the explosives for money and weapons.

Agent Joseph Scott said Tuesday two undercover agents, whom he refused to identify, arrested Michael McMahon, 20, Monday night near a pickup truck parked on a country road south of Danville where the exchange was to take place.

The truck was loaded with ammonium nitrate, primers and blasting caps, agents said. The three other youths, Robert Skinner and William Moore, both 18, and a 16-year-old juvenile, were arrested Tuesday.

Two Held in $5,000 Bond McMahon and Skinner were arraigned on charges of conspiring to possess and transfer destructive devices. They were held in $5,000 bond in the Vermilion County Jail.

Charges were to be filed today against Moore and the juvenile, a police spokesman said. They were held in the same jail.

The stolen explosives were believed to be the same kind used in the Aug. 24 bombing of a University of Wisconsin research building which left one researcher dead and caused up to $6 million damage.

"Ordinance men tell us there's enough to that stuff to blow up three city blocks," Scott said. Authorities said the confiscated explosives, first taken to Camp Atterbury, Ind., to be detonated, were sent back to Illinois to be returned to the firms from which they were stolen.

Explosives Stolen Earlier Scott said the ammonium nitrate was taken from the Material Service Corp. stone quarry and the blasting caps from the Deep Valley Coal Mine, both near Danville, earlier this month.

Scott said the scheme to apprehend the youths began more than a month ago after one of the gang members contacted an agent posing as a revolutionary bent on bombing sections of downtown Chicago. "I told them I was connected with a left-wing organization and that we wanted to blow up the Federal Building in Chicago and railroad yards and anything else we could find," one of the Treasury agents said.

After the initial contact, the youths promised to call the agents when they had the explosives. Scott said that call came a few days ago.

Senate Panel Testimony: Guerrilla Conspiracy in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate panel, spurred by testimony of an alleged nationwide guerrilla conspiracy, was urged today to act swiftly on bills enabling federal law enforcement against police assassins.

"Since 1960 close to 600 policemen have been murdered in this country," said Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., testifying in behalf of his bill allowing the FBI to investigate slaying of policemen or firemen.

"Last year there were a record number of 86 such murders," Williams said in testimony prepared for the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

Besides Williams, Sens. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., Hugh Scott, R-Pa., and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., were set to support their plans to combat the problem. Both Williams and Scott, the Senate Republican leader, are candidates for reelection. Williams' bill would authorize the FBI to enter the case of the murder of a fireman or law officer within 24 hours on the assumption the killer had fled across state lines.

In testimony Tuesday, police officials from California, Omaha, Neb., and New Orleans testified they see an emerging pattern in attacks on policemen that show a national conspiracy is involved.

Capt. Murdock J. Platner of Omaha and Deputy Commissioner Louis J. Sirgo of New Orleans said in separate statements they have evidence members of the Black Panther party regularly monitor police frequencies to frustrate law enforcement activities.

Charles O'Brien, California's chief deputy attorney general and a Democratic candidate for attorney general, testified he fears increasing theft of heavy arms from military arsenals may one day result in terrorists being able to outgun police. He told of a 100 per cent increase this year in killings of law officers in California. O'Brien said he has no doubt the Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society and the Black Panthers are engaged in national conspiracies. "Revolutionary manuals explaining the clandestine use of explosives and emphasizing the special qualities of the mortar in guerrilla warfare are distributed by the SDS Weathermen, by black militant groups, by the Minutemen and by greedy dealers who profit in the sale of guerrilla warfare manuals," O'Brien said.

Guerrilla attacks, he said, "have undoubtedly contributed to more frequent police use of firearms and some of the tragedies which have resulted in police shooting innocent people."

Bank Robbers Take the Boat

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N. Y. (UPI) — A two-country alert was out today for two men who escaped with $116,000 Tuesday from a bank in this Northern New York community located along the St. Lawrence River.

The men wore halloween masks and skimobile suits when they confronted the bank manager and four women employees who had just arrived for work in the morning. One man was armed with a shotgun, the other with a revolver.

Almost all the cash the branch of the Marine Midland Trust Co. of Northern New York had on hand was taken by the men, state police said. The main vault had been unlocked and employees were readying the money for a Brink's pickup when the robbers appeared.

Manager Donald Munro and the women were locked in the main vault and the men carried the money down to an outboard motorboat they had waiting about 200 feet from the branch. The boat was found about three hours later a half-mile up the St. Lawrence on the American side.

Police theorized the men had a car waiting for them at that point. Canadian officials have been alerted to look out for the suspects because of the possibility the men could have driven across one of the international bridges.

State police said an audit showed that $116,000 was missing. One investigator said he believed that was "all but a few dollars" of the available cash.

State police said the men broke through a cellar door during the previous night and waited at the top of the stairs leading to the main floor.

Two women employees unlocked a door to check on the night deposit vault in the cellar when the two men appeared. The men then rounded up the other employees and gathered up the money from the main vault on the first floor.

Edward Miller, a tourist walking along the waterfront, noticed the suspicious actions of the men. Local police went to the bank and heard shouting from the locked vault.

Munro called out the combination of the vault and police opened the heavy door to free the captives.

It was the fourth time, and the most costly, that the bank in this community of about 1,600 residents has been held up or burglarized since October 1958.

The first and previously the largest was an armed robbery in which $53,682 was taken. William E. Adkins, an Alexandria Bay resident, was convicted in that case and served a prison term, being released in May 1967.

Adkins, police said, also staged the second holdup at the branch but with a toy gun, which the manager at the time, E. John Silver, recognized as such. Adkins was again imprisoned.

Ottinger Touches All Bases At Columbia County Dinner

By TIM A. SCHUSTER

HUDSON — Congressman Richard Ottinger accused Richard Nixon of cynicism, opportunism, and posing a double standard on law and order at the Columbia County Democratic Committee dinner here Tuesday night.

After saying "I'm the only man running for the Senate in New York who's running against Richard Nixon and his policies," Ottinger cited his examples.

"I'm running against the Nixon economic policies which have thrown a million Americans out of work in the last 20 months," said the U.S. Senate candidate, adding that bankers' profits soared while your food bill went up.

Nixon' "cynicism" was described in quoting a campaign statement calling for education improvements, and noting that Nixon has vetoed "desperately needed education funds" and "deliberately gutted the U.S. Office of Education."

Nixon's "opportunism" was purported by Ottinger to be a lack of any definite action concerning pollution despite a large fanfare.

The "double standard" on law and order was characterized by Ottinger as "tough talk" on violations but a flat refusal to enforce anti-trust laws against oil companies or to enforce anti-pollution laws against large corporations "which finance campaigns."

Ottinger also scored the present administration on failure to "pressure the government of Turkey to halt the illegal growing of opium or the government of France to crack down on the laboratories and shippers in Marseilles."

In reference to narcotics, Ottinger suggested that the profit incentive should be taken out of usage. "It's better to give addicts drugs," he said, than to put up with the related crime.

In a press conference prior to his speaking engagement at Kozel's Restaurant, Ottinger replied to one question that "Agnew is not getting under my skin. I don't think the people of New York will be affected by his tactics."

On the question of his large expenditures during the primary campaign, Ottinger said that his office estimated that James Buckley has spent "about $80,000 a week for the past seven weeks" in campaigning, more than the congressman has done.

Assessing the national mood, Ottinger said that he doesn't think "the people have turned reactionary," but are frustrated by the economic bind.

In answer to a question, the congressman said that he was seeking a seat in the Senate "because I thought I could be more effective. I can do more about the problems."

"The Senate is the best forum for waging the kind of fights I have waged in the House of Representatives for six years," he added.

Area Political Page

Some of those fights he indicated were: "The fight for effective controls over the polluters and exploiters — a fight which has gotten the Penn Central Railroad indicted; the stopping of Rockefeller from paying over the Hudson River with an expressway, and giving to the City of New York the first regulations over the spraying of cancer-producing asbestos."

He blasted the utility companies for being allowed by the Public Service Commission to charge higher telephone and electricity rates for "poorer and poorer service."

Columbia County Democratic Chairman Lawrence Novack, in speaking to The Freeman, noted that his county was the first to officially endorse Ottinger in the state, even before he had received the party's nomination.

"In fact," he said, "I was impressed with him at a state meeting prior to the conference and told him that I would back him if he decided to run for either governor or senator."

Ottinger claimed that he was the only candidate who has promised to attack issues on the state level as well as national.

"The role of a Senator, as I see it, is not simply to vote and make speeches in Washington," he said. "It's to exercise leadership here in New York as well . . . to focus attention on local issues with significance beyond the community level as I did in raising questions about the environmental and economic impact of the proposed Boise Cascade development here in Columbia County."

TEAMSTERS ENDORSE FISH — Theodore G. Daley (L) secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 445 announced recently that the local union's executive board has voted to support the congressional candidacy of Republican Hamilton Fish Jr., who seeks reelection Nov. 3. Daley said the Local does not give its endorsement lightly and support of Fish came after thorough discussions among members. Anthony Alecca Jr., president of Local 445 is at the right.

Larkin's Conservative Bid Upheld By Appeals Court

The state's highest court, the Court of Appeals, today unanimously upheld the candidacy of Supreme Court Justice candidate John L. Larkin of Kingston on the Conservative Party line.

The decision, political observers feel, virtually assures Larkin's election Nov. 3 as a Republican-Conservative over his Democratic opponent County Judge Timothy Fogarty of Troy.

Larkin, it was felt, needed the Conservative endorsement as well as his Republican candidacy in order to have a clear edge over his opponent.

Represented by Kingston Attorney John Egan, Larkin has had his Conservative candidacy challenged three times.

Democrats through their attorney John J. Clyne, first brought the case to Supreme Court where Albany Justice Russell G. Hunt ruled in their favor stating that there were not enough legally elected delegates at the Conservative Party Convention which nominated Larkin. That decision was later reversed in the Appellate Court where on Oct. 1, where five Justices voted unanimously to restore Larkin's candidacy on Row C.

Democrats with one course left open to them, subsequently took the case to the Court of Appeals Monday where Clyne argued for them and Egan continued his battle for Larkin. The decision of the seven justices on the Court of Appeals was handed down this morning in favor of Larkin without an accompanying opinion, according to Egan.

The victory is especially sweet for Republicans as well as Conservatives in Ulster County due to what they feel is the urgency in securing an additional resident Supreme Court Justice in the Third Judicial District.

Included in the District are counties of Albany, Rensselaer, Columbia, Schoharie, Greene, Sullivan and Ulster.

Nirenberg Misleading Public Claims Vogt

KINGSTON

Francis J. Vogt, assistant district attorney and Republican-Conservative candidate for district attorney took sharp issues today with his Democratic opponent charging him with "deliberately misleading the public" with respect to the record of the incumbent district attorney's office.

Vogt referred to a mimeographed list containing reference numbers to indictments released by Alex J. Nirenberg to the news media which he claims support his (Nirenberg's) assertions that the district attorney's office was not properly carrying out its responsibilities relating to the prosecution of persons charged with the sale of narcotics.

Vogt stated that a review of the actual indictments and the case files relating thereto shows a record of vigorous prosecutions of narcotic cases, pointing out that 85 per cent of all persons charged with selling narcotics were successfully prosecuted. According to Vogt, two of the cases which Nirenberg (the Democratic candidate) categorized as "secret deals" were cases in which Nirenberg himself, had represented the defendants and in both instances the defendants were sentenced to a state penitentiary after pleading guilty to a felony crime as charged in the indictment.

"The so-called 'secret deals' referred to be my opponent," stated Vogt, "are in reality nothing more than the acceptance by the prosecution in open court of a plea of guilty to one of the charges in the indictment in satisfaction of the entire indictment, a practice followed by prosecutors all over the country."

Ulster County like most other counties in the State of New York does not have sufficient judges, courtroom facilities or prosecutors to try every defendant charged with a crime.

Disposition of cases by a negotiated plea of guilty to one or more accounts in the indictment, provided the disposition is a reasonable one, is absolutely necessary to keep a calendar congestion within manageable limits Vogt said.

The new chief justice of the United States Supreme Court, Warren Burger, who is noted for his hard line toward crime, in an article appearing in the August 7, 1970 issue of LIFE magazine said with respect to negotiated pleas or plea bargaining as he put it, "Plea bargaining is a misunderstood concept. It has been given invidious connotations which range from misleading to false . . . Plea discussions leading to disposition of cases are indispensable to any rational administration of criminal justice."

Useless Report

In a letter to the editor appearing on page seven of this issue, a reader claims that the President's Commission on Campus Violence has issued a fine report. We disagree.

The report was a keen disappointment. It placed the responsibility for ending the unrest, not at the doorstep of the colleges themselves—where it belongs—but in President Nixon's lap. It blames the Vietnam war for the violence, yet long before the war became unpopular campus rebellion was breaking out at such places as Berkeley in 1964 and Columbia in 1966. It charges that police and National Guardsmen who needlessly shoot or assault students are criminals and then tries to balance this by saying that this also applies to bombing and burning students.

But nowhere does the report call for stern action where it started, with the nation's permissiveness and spineless college authorities. Attorney General Mitchell has offered the services of 50 of his top men to college leaders who need guidance on keeping order at their institutions. The President has had FBI's J. Edgar Hoover in touch with college administrators. He also evidenced further interest in restoring order in his speech at Kansas University and in later letters to 900 college heads by Dr. Sidney Hook and Mr. Hoover.

So, the President has been taking meaningful steps, the only really effective ones if he can get the cooperation of college officials.

The study commission, with the prestige, behind it, had a great opportunity to end a disgraceful episode in the country's history. But in failing to map out a plan of action and calling for joint sponsorship between government and colleges to set up controls with teeth that either could invoke, its findings are practically useless.

Pornography Study

The President's Commission on Pornography has advised the nation to legalize wallowing in the sex filth that is surrounding us, minors excepted, as if that were possible. One has to wonder where the commission got the information that influenced its report.

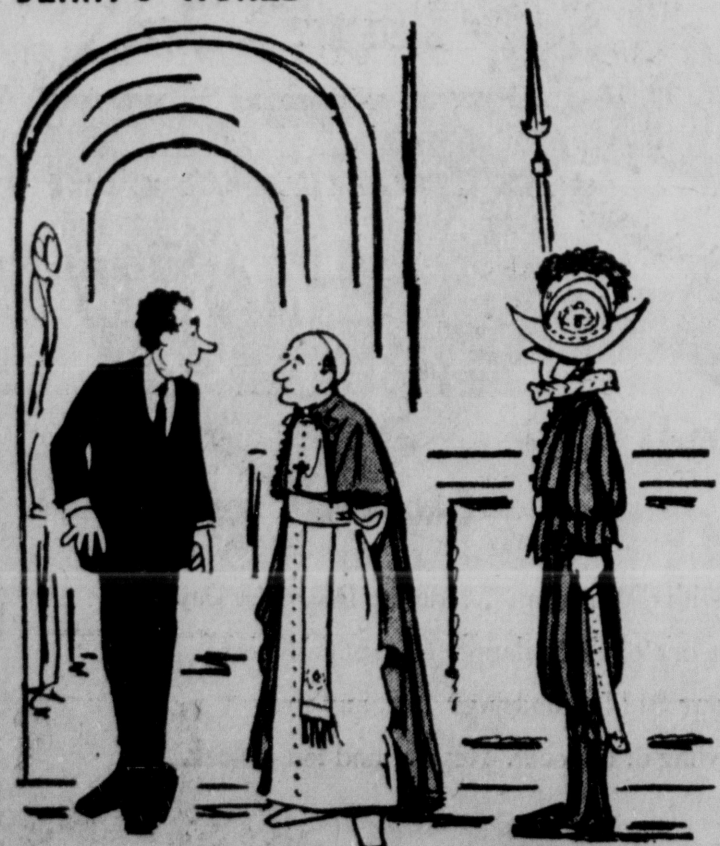

About the only people who would push legalizing smut would be those who peddle it. It is agreed that there there always will be a comparative few sick people who get a certain satisfaction from filthy pictures and literature, but no one can tell us they would appear before a commission asking it to be made legal. It is time that we realized a report such as this and the one on campus unrest are nothing more than the opinions of those who put them together, not what is really needed. What is suggested in the obscenity study is to appeal to the prurient nature of a small number of our people.

Both the commission on pornography and the commission on campus unrest have done a disservice to the people. In each case, instead of coming up with solutions to obvious wrongs, they propose perpetuating them and making them worse.

The anti-pollution drive has turned up some ideas for cleaning the air. One is to require pumps carrying leaded gas to bear a warning akin to that on cigarette packages and hazardous bug sprays. Leaded gas fumes would be labelled poisonous to the air we breathe.

Prince Sihanouk, former ruler of Cambodia, who is self-exiled in Communist China, disclaims communism for himself. He said "I am not and will not become a communist, for I disavow nothing of my religious beliefs or of my nationalism." He banned communism in his country, but now works "hand and glove" with them.

"They Say She's Legal!"

David Lawrence Says Bombings and Vandalism Trouble American People

WASHINGTON — The outcome of a congressional election during a time of unhappiness and dissatisfaction in many parts of the country is not easy to determine from the public opinion polls, especially when no presidential nominee is running. For the voters, irrespective of party, are today discontented.

The biggest issue currently troubling the American people is the violence and disorder breaking out not only in the big cities but in many of the smaller ones. Some of this is racial, but much of it is due to the emotional disturbances produced among small groups of persons under the influence of drug stimulants.

The drug problem is largely responsible for much of the violence on the campuses. It is beginning to worry the headmasters of preparatory schools and the principals of High schools. The people are starting to ask in a mood of despair: "Can't something be done?"

The disorders in the colleges have resulted in a series of commission reports and public dialogues. All these in one way or another seem to point to such topics as police "brutality" or the "over-reaction" of National Guardsmen. But the simple facts are that when friction occurs, it produces bitterness which doesn't go away, and when there are large assemblages, bottles and stones are thrown, epithets are hurled, and sometimes there is sniper fire. After it is over, the criticism is against those who sought to stop the rioting by force of arms. Do the participants want state troops or police to be kept away entirely? Do they think these officers of the law and particularly young guardsmen can stand by unmoved by the insults that come when mobs begin taunting them?

The only answer is to prevent gatherings when conditions are tense. On one side this is viewed as a denial of "freedom of speech." But many a voter doesn't care how it is characterized. He wants the "precursors of violence" stopped, too.

What, therefore, will the voters do in an election such as faces them this autumn? The candidates will have little to say about the issues of campus disorder except to condemn them in the most general terms. The people want the governor of a state or the mayor of a city or their senator or representative in Congress not to hesitate to deal with the new era of "demonstrations" which have been tolerated as "free speech" but which really have been incitements to disorder and have resulted in violations of law.

When disturbing conditions prevail or if outside elements are known to be involved which are likely to stir up trouble, permits can be withheld. But it takes courage for officeholders to do this. The people, however, want such firmness and sternness today. They are tired of reading of the bombings and vandalism and of the disorders in streets and parks and on campuses.

If "dope" is a powerful influence in creating disorders, as it appears to be, then the people prefer rigid enforcement of existing statutes or new laws to be enacted. They are not interested in listening to excuses that drugs are not actually harmful.

But how is protest expressed at the polls in a congressional election? It generally comes out in a reaction against the incumbent party. The theory is that current conditions are not being dealt with by those in power and that maybe another majority in a new legislature will do a better job.

Restlessness by the electorate is usually manifest, too, when the unemployment figures rise, and that's what is happening now. The statistics are climbing. While the number is by no means anywhere near what it was in the depression years of the 1930's, it is a source of apprehension in political circles. But in the next four weeks all candidates will have a chance to speak out on the "law and order" question.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Foot-and-a-half did his usual walk-around inspection. He had a brass can of oil with a two-foot spout and he studied the giant drivers of the steam locomotive, the steam boxes, the thick axles, and lifted the lids from the coal tender wheels to see if the pads were soaked with oil so that his train wouldn't get a hot box between Exchange Place, Jersey City, and Harrisburg, Pa.

The run on the Pennsylvania was 190 miles, and Foot-and-a-half had the fastest non-stop train. Once, when he was a young engineer, he had placed his right foot on the rail while looking under the locomotive and the wheels had moved forward a couple of inches and removed the front of his instep. The medical board tried to retire him. No chance.

He not only got his job back, but he got the morning newspaper train. Foot-and-a-half was a short man with a rocking horse limp who never permitted less than perfection on his train. Ammermann, his conductor, was rated among the best, but he wouldn't argue with Foot-and-a-half. They carried seven baggage cars full of New York morning newspapers and those bundles were bound with wire and arranged near the doorway so that they could be kicked off while the train was at top speed.

It was near two a.m. and this was a clear night of icy stars and icicles hanging from the rods and steam pluming from the hose links between cars. He had his brakemen examine couplings, brake shoes, and he got up on the high steps of the panting beast and felt along the throttle bar for the smooth spot.

Wherever that spot was, this particular locomotive would do her best. Beyond or before it, he would labor. He felt it, found it, and heard the whistle of the Ferry Boat Chicago coming into the slip. Edward McCarthy, a short gray-haired captain, was bringing thousands of copies of the morning Times, Morning World, Tribune and Herald.

Now it would be up to Foot-and-a-half to get them to the railroad station before dawn so that people could read the news at their breakfast tables. Coming in the opposite direction by daylight, it was common for him to hang out a message on a metal arm, to be snatched as he passed Trenton Tower stating: "Know that Number Three express is right behind me out of Washington. Tell Rahway Tower not to sidetrack me to let him pass because I'm carrying perishable fruits and can beat him into the Jersey City yards any way."

This was not a boast. Foot-and-a-half could do it. He could climb the hill out of Trenton to New Brunswick, hauling a train of swaying cars, sparks climbing red into the night sky, and Rahway Tower didn't dare stop him. He sped by it like summer thunder, and he kept studying his Waltham, and knew that he was still three minutes ahead of the express and could loaf into the yards in front.

Foot-and-a-half saw the hand trucks coming, the bundles of papers being loaded fast, the icicles hanging from the cars and silencing the rails. At one minute of two, he had his left hand on the throttle bar and he was glaring back at Ammermann. He got the swing of the lantern and he told his fireman to keep the fire box open and to keep shoveling.

Jack Anderson Says Alabama Congressman Has Bad Memory for Figures

WASHINGTON — Congress man Bill Dickinson, the amiable Alabamian, has been careless with his finances.

He has passed off as "campaign contributions" money that he has collected but failed to report. He has also used his credit card to charge hotel, restaurant and travel expenses, then he has forwarded the bills to a business-professional group in Alabama to pay.

In an earlier column, we reported that Dickinson accepted $1,000 from Spears Service, Inc., in 1968, then used his influence as a member of the House Armed Services Committee to help the company land a million-dollar Army contract.

He claimed the $1,000 was a "campaign contribution" from the company's vice president, D.R. Jackson, who told us he gave the money "in behalf of the company." Not only is there no record of the contribution as required by law, but corporate contributions are illegal in any event.

Dickinson picked up another donation in 1968 from Jack Hawthorne, an attorney for the Alabama Power Company. The Congressman acknowledged receiving $500, but Hawthorne thought it was less.

"Not one dime of it," said Hawthorne, "came from Alabama Power or Dan River or any of my other clients." Not one dime of it, either, was reported on Dickinson's state or federal filings.

The Congressman collected still another unreported $3,000 in 1968 from doctors through the American Medical Political Action Committee, L. P. "Pat" Patterson, executive director of the Alabama Medical Association, told this column he believes the Alabama group gave $2,000 and the national organization gave $1,000. There is no mention of either contribution in Dickinson's filings.

The Business - Industry Political Action Committee also reported giving Dickinson $3,000 for his 1968 campaign. None of this is reported in his federal filings, and $500 is omitted from his Alabama filings.

Alabama Slush Fund
A group of his business and professional friends, meanwhile, has raised a $30,000 "slush fund" to pay his travel expenses and publish a special newsletter.

The revelation that Richard

Nixon had benefitted from a similar fund while he was in Congress nearly cost him the Vice Presidency. Only a stirring defense over nationwide television, his famous "Checkers" speech, kept him from being dropped from the 1952 Republican ticket.

Dickinson's "slush fund" is subscribed by 100 affluent supporters who belong to his exclusive "Congressional Club." Membership costs $100, plus another $50 a year in dues. In return for their payments, they are invited to hobnob with the Congressman at a social breakfast or some other affair at least once a year.

Dr. Joseph G. Stewart, a prominent Montgomery, Ala., dentist, is the club chairman. His wife Roxie, who keeps the books, said the club has raised $30,317.50 for Dickinson's personal use.

"The members are business leaders, as a general rule, accountants and contractors," said Dr. Stewart. "You won't find your lower income people because they can't afford it." Bill Dickinson, a former judge turned Congressman, has been a staunch champion of law and order. Attorney General John Mitchell also has taken a strong stand on the subject. It will be interesting to see, therefore, what Mitchell will do about the law violations of his fellow Republican.

Washington Whispers
Nixon vs. Rock—President Nixon will call upon radio station executives to ban rock music that promotes the drug culture. He has invited the executives to the third in his series of White House conferences on the drug problem. The President is considering a similar appeal to the nation's disc jockeys because of their large teen-age audiences. He hasn't made a final decision whether to invite record jockeys to a fourth drug conference. But he would like to find some way to rid the air waves of rock music with drug connotations.

Bentley's Legal Advice
After this column revealed that Federal Maritime Chairman Helen Delich Bentley has solicited political donations from shipping executives, she received some free legal advice from the attorneys for the Moore-McCormack Steamship Lines. The lawyers—William, John and Ira Ewers—claim their advice was unsolicited. Out of pure curiosity, William Ewers told this column, they looked up the laws governing political solicitations. He admitted they also discussed the question with Moore-McCormack's Washington representative, Nicholas Pasco.

Ewers, Ewers and Ewers concluded from their research that it was perfectly legal for Mrs. Bentley to solicit political contributions from the shippers she regulates. They passed on this opinion. William Ewers said, to James Fausen for relay to Mrs. Bentley. Other attorneys say it is definitely against the law for the Federal Maritime Chairman to seek favors of any kind from the industry under her jurisdiction.

Mediterranean Drama
There was unreported drama in the Mediterranean at the height of the Mideast crisis. Soviet ships pulled into position around the crisis area before the U.S. Sixth Fleet was able to move up. Ignoring the Soviet presence, the Sixth Fleet also deployed carriers and cruisers in the critical area. The Soviet ships immediately closed in on the U.S. ships, but restricted their activities to surveillance.

There was also a bit of backstage drama at the Pentagon. The Navy warned Secretary of Defense Mel Laird bluntly that the Sixth Fleet could be driven out of the Mediterranean by the Soviets. The Russians could deploy more ships in the Mediterranean than the U.S. could bring in. In another five years, the Navy warned, the U.S. may not be able even to maintain a presence in the Mediterranean.

U.N. Is 25, but Can It Continue?

By LEON DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — As international dignitaries converge on New York to celebrate the General Assembly's 25th anniversary, many observers are warning that the U.N. may not survive to half its 50th.

Warned that the U.N. is "on trial" and that it sleeps in the face of international "jungle law," the delegates devote themselves to parochial interests. The signals of major alarm are drowned in the din of oratory from mini-states whose real or imaginary grievances take precedence over genuine quest for world peace.

As a young reporter I witnessed the birth of the U.N. in San Francisco in 1945. I find myself becoming increasingly pessimistic about its future.

The setting for the 1970 anniversary is more sparkling than ever. The African robes worn by many delegates and guests, male and female, never looked more colorful.

But as the General Assembly's former president, Liberia's Angie Brooks, remarked sadly, "We have lacked and do lack a sense of reality." That this was hardly an understatement was shown again by the tragic events in Jordan. King Hussein and the Palestinian guerrillas have agreed to an uneasy truce, but thousands of Arabs are dead. And yet quick and firm action by the U.N.'s Security Council might have prevented the massacre.

Syria's invasion of Jordan with Moscow's consent and with Russian tanks was a clear violation of the U.N.'s Charter. It was — as it still is — the kind of threat to peace that the Security Council was entrusted by the Charter to meet with "prompt and effective" action.

Nevertheless, a majority of U.N.'s members decided to look the other way. Always ready to condemn American and Israeli "imperialism," they were reluctant to resort to the Security Council in the case of Syria's invasion of Jordan.

General Secretary U Thant also decided to play it cool — as he did when Russia invaded Czechoslovakia in 1968. He always manages to stay "neutral" on the side of Moscow and its clients.

The sad truth is that more than half of U.N.'s members are primarily interested in denouncing the "colonial" governments of South Africa, Rhodesia and Portugal. They are not really concerned with peace. Their "neutrality" is best gauged by the resolutions adopted at the recent conference of "unaligned" nations in Lusaka, Zambia, where 56 of U.N.'s 126 members took part.

Though ostensibly unaligned, the conference condemned Cambodia's anti-Communist government of Premier Lon Nol.

It called for the "immediate and unconditional" withdrawal of Israel's forces from occupied Arab territories.

American troops in Vietnam were singled out for special condemnation when the "unaligned" members of the United Nations deplored "foreign intervention." But there was no mention of Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia.

The Viet Cong's representative at the Paris peace talks, Mrs. Binh, even received an unparalleled ovation when she addressed the conference as a "fraternal observer."

It may not be possible, then, for the U.N. as it is presently constituted to serve as an impartial and effective instrument of peace.

Youth Says Ads Are Productive

Distributed by NEA.

Young people believe that advertising is necessary but raises prices, according to the National Gilbert Youth Poll.

The poll, which surveys opinions of 3,000 youths aged 14 to 25, found that 78 per cent of them believe advertising is beneficial to the United States economy, whereas only 12 per cent contended it was harmful.

"If it weren't for advertising, we wouldn't be able to have such a wide range of products to choose from," one respondent said.

Another youth added that "advertising probably convinces more people to buy things they might not necessarily need, so in the long run, it helps the Gross National Product."

Almost as many young people—77 per cent—said advertising increases prices. "It's good for the economy but even more it's good for the companies who sell the products," one respondent said.

Only 12 per cent agreed with the Brooklyn College coed who said that "in the long run, the advertiser hopes that advertising will increase his sales, so I think the manufacturer will then pass the benefits on to me in the form of lower prices."

A California youngster who said that "without advertising I'd have no idea of what I should buy when two products outwardly appear to be identical" was part of the 76 per cent who said we would miss advertising if we didn't have it.

Twelve per cent said a lack of advertising would make no difference. Nine per cent contended we would be better off without it.

One New York housewife labeled advertising as "brain washing" but 87 per cent of the respondents said they would buy an advertised brand rather than an unadvertised one if the items were equally priced.

Most youths said there should be government controls to guarantee truth in advertising but they differed about what level of government should do the controlling.

The federal government should oversee advertising, according to 35 per cent of the respondents, and 29 per cent said the federal government should supplement state laws. Thirteen per cent contended the states alone should maintain control. The other 23 per cent said business and the advertising industry should police themselves.

Most people are not brimming with enthusiasm about the quality of advertising. Only 14 per cent said the advertising directed to youth is done very well, while 44 per cent rated it as fairly well done, 25 per cent called it average and 16 per cent said it was poor.

The National Gilbert Youth Poll is based on a national sample designed to provide results valid for the entire nation's 14-to-25 age group.

'Fine Report'

October 1, 1970
Editor, The Freeman

The President's Commission on Campus Violence has just issued its report. It's too bad that President Nixon, who ordered the commission, can't keep his own people in support of its fine report.

Agnew, true to form, is either stupid or he is trying hard to be divisive. Everything Agnew has said about the Commission's report is the opposite of the truth.

I have a copy of major excerpts, in case anyone desires the truth, not Agnew's sinister distortion.

Narcotic Addiction

Editor, The Freeman.

The following letter was sent to the Common Council of the City of Poughkeepsie:

Narcotic addiction has become an increasing problem in our society. Addiction affects people from every section of the community. The problems of addiction have been studied for decades and still there is no universal accepted approach for cure or prevention. All evidence to date seems to prove that simply making the sale or use of drugs illegal does not stop the ever-increasing number of addicts.

It is time to look upon addiction as a social and medical problem and the traffic in drugs as a law enforcement problem.

Vigorous action is needed if we are to make progress in the reduction and ultimate elimination of addiction. I strongly urge the creation of a Bureau of Narcotics for the City of Poughkeepsie and by doing so, there will be an all-out war against the illegal narcotics traffic, aimed not at its victims, but at its underworld directors.

Yours truly,

Enjoyable Visit

Editor, The Freeman

The staff and patients at the Albany Avenue Nursing Home, Inc. would like to publicly thank the boys and girls of the Kingston Sing Out for a very enjoyable Sunday afternoon visit.

These kids are really "something." Kingston should be proud of them. They not only make delightful music. They are a pleasure to meet, neat, well-balanced and friendly.

Their choice of music and presentation were in excellent taste and could be enjoyed by one and all. They really "bridged the generation gap."

We are looking forward to having them visit us again.

Endorse Buckley

Editor, The Freeman.

Tuesday night I spoke to the Republican Club of Accord, Ulster County, and after the conclusion of my remarks, the Republican Club voted unanimously to endorse Jim Buckley and the balance of the Republican Ticket. This action proves that the sentiment for Buckley throughout the Hudson River Counties among the Republicans is overwhelming and I believe that he will receive an enormous protest vote among the Democrats of Italian, Irish and Polish origin and will be elected in what was originally an uphill fight.

The Republican candidate has virtually read himself out of the Party and will run a very bad third. A vote for him would be a vote for the Democratic candidate. At the request of the Buckley Republicans, I have been asked and have accepted to organize a Committee of 100 prominent Republicans in Orange County for Buckley which will be even easier than in Dutchess, as I was a Committeeman there for many years and believe am better known in Orange County.

Sincerely yours,

Golden Years

Today whether we like it or not millions of Americans living in the wealthiest country in the world who are past 65 are victims of poverty, loneliness, pain and humiliation as daily realities.

Unless you are wealthy, you can't gracefully grow old because you are on the other side of the generation gap—a senior citizen without a country.

A prominent Senator from the West stated, "It's a crime to grow old in the U.S. and we treat our criminals with more concern than the elderly."

In this country there are 20 million people over 65. According to the office of Economic Opportunity 25 per cent of the total are living in extreme poverty.

One example, an octogenarian living alone in a rotting frame house with no inside toilet. Social Security sixty a month. Said she, "No one comes to see me and I can remember when folks like me were looked up to."

Another interview ended with the phrase of an 80-year-old man, "No one cares. A new generation has taken over and I am out in the cold."

With inflation as it is today it is not out of order to ask how an average individual can save enough to live out the golden years.

They are starving for companionship; they hold their heads high, they are too overwhelmed with pride to cry out. They say they are getting along fine, but suffer silently.

Many make most of their own clothes, if their eye sight merits it. And can only afford the cheapest cuts of meat.

This age category pays a heavy penalty for retirement because of the loss of status in our society, and as more and more people are growing old and living longer, they will be added to the NEW poor.

The light is beginning to shine because there are proposals under study as the rise above the poverty line, government supported health centers, mental health clinics, White House conference on aging, pension commission, and the provisions for the opportunity to work, and meet people in order to afford self-help, and a feeling of being wanted to render service to the community.

I would like to close this letter with this thought:

Those who have served their generation well, and whose hands have tenderly cared and labored for us, raising us from childhood to take their places don't we owe them the very best that a nation as rich as ours can give in the terms of that same love and devotion which they so unselfishly gave us.

Sincerely yours,
EDWIN J. HEGBY

Human Cells and Fluoride

Editor, The Freeman:

Laboratory evidence showing that sodium fluoride in minute quantities — 1110 of the humans—slows the growth of human cells has been reported in the British Medical Journal, organ of the British Medical Association.

The brief report (Oct. 25, 1963) has had a stunning effect, for in spite of its brevity, it states flatly that a tiny amount of sodium fluoride "appreciably depressed" the growth of the cells used in an experiment by an Oxford scientific team.

London's Daily Mirror described the Medical Journal article as a "shock report" and in the United States the director of the National Institute of Dental Research in Bethesda, MD, Dr. Francis A. Arnold Jr. conceded he was surprised by the report.

The results of the research were described in one news report as "probably the first indication of the toxicity of fluoride in high dilution to human and animal cells in a test tube environment. The experiment was conducted with two types of mammal cells; one was from a patient with cancer, the other was from a mouse.

The cells were placed in a liquid ordinarily used in laboratory cell experiments. The growth rate was counted by an electronic cell counter. In every case in which sodium fluoride was added to the solution at a concentration of 0.1 parts per million or more, (The recommended concentration for water fluoridation is one part per million) "the growth of both cell lines was appreciably depressed" the researchers reported. The use of sodium Chloride, however, in concentrations as great as any used for sodium fluoride did not depress the growth rate.

This report, in addition to others, should make it evident that sodium fluoride is an unwise addition to the daily intake of the human being.

Thank You,
MARY CASHARA

Use of Amphetamines

Editor, The Freeman:

Regarding the matter of treating children who have "Minimal Brain Dysfunction" with Amphetamines, I think a few facts need to be introduced into the picture.

The rule in this area, and I assume elsewhere, is that the diagnosis is made by physicians after careful psychological and neurological study of the child. If the child is unduly hyperactive, sufficiently so as to make it impossible to teach him, he is referred for medical examination. If he is found to have "Minimal Brain Dysfunction" amphetamines are prescribed by the examining doctor.

I know of no situation where teachers or other non-medical persons are permitted to prescribe medicine. The role which the school plays is to let the mother know that the child should have a medical examination because his hyperactivity interferes with his benefiting from being in the class room. (It may also so disturb the class room that the other children cannot be taught). If examination reveals "Minimal Brain Dysfunction" medicine is prescribed.

Amphetamine is not a "tranquillizer" (a ridiculously abused word) nor is it a "dangerous drug" when prescribed in this way. If the child has diabetes, insulin would be prescribed. Doctors prescribe specific medicines for specific abnormal states.

Regarding the use of amphetamines for the "Minimal Brain Dysfunction" child, we know that these children outgrow the problem some time in their adolescence. If we can get the child in such condition that he can get through the early school grades, adapt himself to the class room regime and profit from the teaching, he has a good chance in life as any other child. On the other hand, if, during the first six years of school, his hyperactivity prevents his paying attention or grasping what is taught he will never catch up and therefore be occupationally handicapped for the rest of his life. At this stage in our medical knowledge, judicious use of amphetamine is the only way to steady the child.

So, to paraphrase a popular phrase, "What do you want? An educated child or a handicapped adolescent and adult?" Emeline Place Hayward, M.D., Director

Legislators and Taxes

Editor, The Freeman

Well, the legislators have put one over on us once again. In Albany they have found another way of squeezing money out of the tax slaves. Now, anyone who owns a snowmobile must pay a $5 registration fee whether it is used on public or one's private land. Legislation such as this is not going to stop unless we all awaken and elect legislators who are opposed to squandering our money on such things as liberal welfare benefits, junkets, peace talks and foreign aid programs designed to buy allies.

The Treasury Department now is preparing a tax reform package for Congress which includes a tax on Social Security benefits. And, because of our apathy this package will probably pass the House, for as long as the average American will sit in front of the TV, drink a can of beer and watch a ball game, the legislators will tax us into bankruptcy. And to think that in this New World only 200 years ago our independence movement began because of a small tax on tea. Shame on us.

Conservatively,

Defendants Barred From Court

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The proceedings were dull. If it had been a television show, they would have rewritten the script. It was a session of the murder trial of Charles Manson, hippie cult leader, and three young women codefendants Tuesday. But it was like playing Hamlet without a Hamlet on stage.

Manson, 36, accused mastermind of the slaying of actress Sharon Tate and six other persons, was not in court. He was ensconced behind a grill in an adjacent room. The three young woman codefendants were upstairs listening, presumably, on a sound system so their constitutional rights would be protected.

They were all given the heave-ho Monday by Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older when Manson leaped over the counsel table at the judge and threatened his life. The young women, Susan Atkins, Leslie Van Houten and Patricia Krenwinkel began chanting some gibberish so they were thrown out too.

In court, Dwayne Wolfer of the Los Angeles Police Department was called by the state to testify about tests he made at the Benedict Canyon estate where Miss Tate and four friends were slain on the night of Aug. 8, 1969.

He said he and another officer, Dave Butler, took part in the tests which included firing a .22 caliber revolver in and around the Tate estate and trying to determine whether shots were heard in a guest house out back.

On the night of the slayings, the guest house was occupied by the young caretaker, Wil-

Sweethearts of Sigma Chi—Mixed Reaction to Derby Day

By LINDA M. LEBSACK

Associated Press Writer

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Women's libbers termed it "degrading," girls participating called it "fun, a way to meet guys," and fraternity men said, "it's really fine, a tradition, and a blast."

They were talking about Derby Day, an annual event on a hundred or so campuses with chapters of Sigma Chi fraternity. The festival began in 1940 at the University of California at Berkeley.

Saturday's edition at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute was interrupted by a thunderstorm, but more than 100 girls from four schools romped through relay races led by Sigma Chi mentors.

"It's degrading. We're ignoring its existence," Susie Alten, RPI '70, said when asked if women's liberation planned to picket.

"Women's Lib put up some posters next to Derby Day signs. Things like 'Don't display your sex,'" said Pat Rist, an RPI senior and the Sweetheart of Sigma Chi.

"We're disappointed there wasn't a coed team," said Pat and another senior coed, both members of the winning team three years ago.

About 200 of RPI's 5,000 students are female.

Another member of both the 1967 winning team and the 1968 titlists was asked if she had felt exploited. "No, distinctly not. I was a freshman, duly impressed by the entire operation," said Carmelita Britton, now a medical student in Albany.

"The whole thing is so silly—but it's just fun. The guys participated as well as the girls... rolling over with pies in their teeth and coaching. They rooted, too. It was very competitive."

"I would never do it again but then it was a very fun thing. My outlook has changed and the school's changed. We've all changed," she said.

"We wouldn't be here if we didn't want to be," said a Russell Sage College student Saturday. "I didn't hear any grief in the dorms. Any girls who aren't here didn't come because they're afraid," she said, swinging a half-empty beer can.

"The brothers had a lot of trouble getting girls in past years, too," said Larre Nelson, an alumna active in several Derby Days. "They're afraid of getting laughed at, but the girls who do come just let their hair down and have a good time."

Girls from Russell Sage, Skidmore, Green Mountain College in Vermont and sororities at the State University at Albany were on hand.

Healthy-looking young competitors, mostly freshmen, wore jeans, tee-shirts and sweat-shirts, knee-socks and loafers. Greek letters were painted on the backs of their pants by avid fraternity men, none of them hippie-looking.

The girls' long, shiny hair was tied up to stay out of the whipped cream, water and other concoctions their faces eventually met.

During the first relay, teams raced over the wet grass, cigars in hand. They stopped to bob for apples, eat bananas, chug down something from paper cups and hop in plastic bags, all the time keeping the cigars lit.

Sometimes they slipped and fell while several hundred spectators, mostly male students, roared other fraternities and Then competitors, on hands and a sophomore sat blindfolded and were kissed 30 seconds each by a girl from each team. A brother fanned the nearly

After that came the kissing contest. Two Sigma Chi alumni and a sophomore were voted best and three girls won team point for their smooching ability. The crowd was delighted with verse limbo, an elimination contest won by the girl who attempted to prove their cunning abilities to outwit, overpower, or under a bar set at successively higher levels and knock it down. In the afternoon events, according to a program, "the girls Derby Daddy Paul Cosgrave, a Sigma Chi junior from Mineola, completely destroy their fellow females." "It's really a fun time," said

BOICEVILLE faculty and administration in cooperation with the PTA in order to foster cooperative relationships and understanding between home and school.

Other workshops planned in the series include:

Kindergarten, October 22, Mrs. Mildred McGloughlin;

Grade 2, October 15, Mrs. Vanni, Roger Jones and R. Hellenschmidt; Special Classes, December 3, Miss Virginia Slavik and Jon Levin.

All workshops begin at 7:30 p.m. Parents of children in the grades or subjects being discussed are cordially invited to attend.

Pottery-Clay Classes for Children

WOODSTOCK original creative forms within the limits of the material.

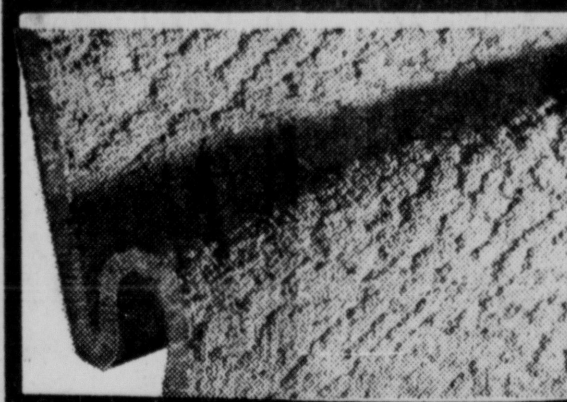

Classes in pottery making and clay sculpture will start Thursday at 4 p.m. at Hutchins' Studio near the Woodstock School.

Children are taught all of the basic methods of clay building from the simple coil pot and slab construction to the more difficult wheel thrown pieces. The children are encouraged to combine methods and seek individual pursuing his own interest once he has mastered the fundamental techniques.

A recent field trip to dig clay and observation of kilns in action give the children an understanding of the basic materials and methods involved in forming a work of art in Stoneware. Class sizes are kept small and there are only three openings left. Sylva Hutchins may be called for further information.

Kitchen Carpet Has Its Advantages

Accent Rugs — New Art Form

There's a new art form afoot in the world of floor coverings, designed to the specifications of the individual or the designer. These rugs are not created for a market, but for individuals. In this situation, the designer has absolute freedom. Colors are totally unrestricted; yarns can be skein-dyed to order, or can come from the inventory of many colors available. There is no limit to size or shape, since each rug may be created of a piece.

In today's society, comfort is an important requirement in our daily routine. By all rights why should this not be extended into the kitchen? The average housewife spends a considerable amount of her time in the kitchen, and what would be more pleasing than to have the area carpeted?

Kitchen carpet has now become the accepted standard of luxury in kitchen floor-covering, affording the consumer a most varied and inexhaustible supply of highly fashionable patterns and colors with the advent of improved synthetic fibers and machinery. These made possible the production of a very dense, low pile carpet, heralding the birth of the ideal carpet for use in the kitchen. Almost simultaneous with this, carpet printing technology had reached the stage in which it became feasible to print multi-color patterns onto the newly carpet and is easily removed by light vacuuming. This simplicity and ease of cleaning is made possible by the synthetic fibers which were especially developed to easily release grit and dirt. The comfort of kitchen carpet today is provided us by the attached high density rubber cushion in conjunction with the dense pile of the carpet. This gives us a steady feeling underfoot, yet definitely soft floorcovering.

Accepted Standard of Luxury

Carpets Help in the Kitchen

Kitchen Carpet Has Advantages

Soil and dirt have been the lifelong enemies of the housewife. Carpet, as is a well-known fact, catches soil and dirt, brushes it off the feet, thus confining tracking to a limited area. The soil clings slightly. Both plagues of noise and breakage can be greatly reduced with carpet. Scientific tests have proven that carpet is one of the best materials that can be used to absorb sound. The convenience of carpet in the kitchen is an obvious trend toward greater acceptance of various woven effects — plaids, basket weaves, houndstooth, twill and its numerous variations. Also, the updating of many traditional designs into contemporary flairs are being offered to the consumer who demands a more avant-garde approach to his interior decor.

Kitchen Carpet Trends for '70

Several style areas are in the forefront for 1970. The approach to his interior decor.

Walking Man

Ever wonder how your carpet is wear tested? Several ways are employed by manufacturers but an interesting one recently designed and built at North Carolina State University in Raleigh, is called the "walking man".

Designed by engineering students as a club project for the School of Home Economics at UNC, Greensboro, the machine can simulate step length, foot pressure distribution and weight of man or woman, "walking" in a straight line or at random over the test area in accordance with programmed switches and a reversing motor. It has the same test capabilities as 500-1,000 people an hour walking over a 3' x 18" test area.

Regular Care Keeps Carpets Beautiful

Your home has just received the beautiful compliment of the installation of an exquisite new carpet. It enhances everything in the room...the whole house seems to be right from the pages of the most fabulous home magazine. It looks great...you feel great! But beautiful as it is, that new carpet must be walked upon—in all weathers—and exposed to dust, dirt and stains which gravitate to the floor. The question now is...will the beauty linger on? Yes! It will...if you make your byword "care"... "regular care".

In any climate, a good practice is to go over your carpet lightly each day with a carpet sweeper or vacuum cleaner. Much depends upon the traffic in the room, and the cleanliness of the air where you live. If you use a carpet sweeper daily, you can expect it to take up surface soil but not the soil that works down between the tufts. Therefore, it is best to thoroughly vacuum your carpet once a week, preferably with a brush and beater-bar type vacuum cleaner, moving it slowly to allow the suction to remove embedded soil particles.

Classic Wool To Enjoy Resurgence

That old standby natural fiber, wool, the Classic, is really coming out strong for styling in the Seventies. The fiber that does everything well, it's resilient, bulks beautifully...now is being introduced in innovations like needlepunch wool carpet which will provide a luxurious floor-covering that is very versatile.

Another unique process of manufacture, and exclusive adaptation of knitting, also symbolizes the new affinity of fashion and home fashions in the plans for wool in the Age of Aquarius. Several months ago, a fleecy broadloom and rugs shaped like sheepskins using this new process were introduced. Another first for wool, a washable wool rug, is now available in a flock of styling.

Other innovations for the natural fiber include a registered process for piece-dyed wool which can be produced in three colors with a single dye bath. One dunk and voila...a gorgeous tri-colored floor-covering! And the new wool processes are adaptable to the latest dyeing techniques in all constructions like shag, loop and plush.

A process which gives wool a greater luster and brightness, especially important in the fashionable pastel tones, will increase the variety of wool on the market while an improving, other chemical process, an outgrowth of the permanent press system developed for men's slacks and women's skirts by wool manufacturers some years ago, will retain the appearance retention.

Coordinates In Bathroom

Today's woman wants a coordinated look everywhere in the house...and that includes the bathroom. Women are decorating their bathrooms today just as completely as the living room. More and more they are buying coordinated rugs, towels, shower curtains and related accessories, often in one purchase rather than an item at a time.

In order to serve this trend, many stores are setting up complete bath departments or "Bath Shops", stocking a wide selection of bath rugs along with decorative accessories, baskets and utility fixtures all matching and shower curtains to complete the ensemble.

Now, the wall-to-wall trend which is once again with us, includes the bathroom. The consumer can find this item in large department stores, of course, but an even larger selection is hers in chain stores and from mail order catalogs.

Suffers Shock

VIENNA (UPI)—The Romanian News agency Agerpres disclosed Tuesday night that Premier Ion Gheorghe Maurer, 68, suffered a serious shock in an automobile accident Monday. It said his condition was improving.

Maurer, No. 2 man in the press system developed for Romanian government, is under men's slacks and women's skirts by wool manufacturers some years ago, will retain the appearance retention.

Do-It-Yourself Decorators in the Carpet Field

A pleasant surprise awaits the do-it-yourself decorator with an eye for beauty, a flair for luxury and a mind for value.

That "surprise" is an exciting new shag carpet that comes in an easy to handle package...carpet tiles that blossom into a beautiful wall-to-wall carpet gracious enough for any room, any furnishings, in any home.

Skill, patience and tools of the do-it-yourself trade aren't necessary with some of these tiles. They are part of one manufacturer's revolutionary new flooring system concept which features a total bonding over the entire back, making the product completely mobile. Another manufacturer's technique features a unique foam rubber "waffle". But in each case, tiles are simple to put down; easy to take up for cleaning, or for moving or repositioning, time after time. Because of their construction and other features, these tiles stay in place even when vacuumed or cleaned; yet are small enough to handle and lift by a petite Miss.

Even the unhandiest lady of the house can install this attractive flooring. She merely determines the quantity of tiles needed, chooses the color, has a pair of shears handy for fitting carpet to the nooks and crannies, cleans the floor and goes to work. Within a short working with a tight budget, the self-stick carpet tiles are economically priced to fit the pocketbook with the price-per-square-yard representing the total expense...no cost for installation or anything else.

Just think! You can let your imagination run rampant...monogram your bedroom carpet, fashion a geometric, stripe it, or carpet a bench. Using one coloration throughout the installation, it's a broadloom; an individualized "tile" or personalized setting when combined with one or more of the several shades or wild multi-colors available.

Other Carpet Types on the Market

While shag seems to be a favorite of many, there are those who may prefer other constructions and may find carpet tiles available in plush, multi-level and level loop, solid colors or in the popular geometric and brightly varied and colored prints.

In these, as in the shag tiles, no intricate matching or fitting...and can be installed anywhere...living room, bedroom, hallway, dining room, or blade; press the carpet in place...and there you are! Your do-it-yourself floorcovering looks smart and stays flat...resists stretching, curling, slipping and skidding.

Roth plush and shag offer the long wear, easy-upkeep advantages of man-made fibers; save money because their thick, springy, cushiony foam rubber back is padding "built in". All of the different tiles, colorful, stylish, easy to do...require no peeling or apartment!

Broadloom Carpet & Remnants

The Silent Partner Of Carpet — Cushion

When Queen Elizabeth wanted to prepare for visitors to her castle, she ordered fresh, clean straw to be spread over stone floors and fine, rare tapestries to be brought out.

Today's homemakers, minus page boys and castles, have a better way of making ready for family and guests. They order carpet with comfortable cushion underfoot.

The cushion under the carpet — or "carpet's silent partner" — as it has sometimes been called — is an important part of every good installation. In addition to providing comfort and quiet, it helps to extend carpet life by acting as a shock absorber and insuring a smooth, even base for the carpet or rug.

Cushion Then, Cushion Now
Over the years, various types of materials have been used for carpet cushion (sometimes called "padding", "underlay" or "lining"). These have included straw, newspapers and cotton batting filled with crumbled paper. Carpet cushion as we know it today is a comparatively recent development and the first wide cushion for broadloom installation, made specifically for that purpose, was developed only about 40 years ago.

Today, four basic types of cushion are available: felted cushion, made of hair or a combination of hair and jute; flat sponge rubber; rippled sponge rubber; and polyurethane, both in rebounded form which is made of small bits of new foam bonded into a sheet with urethane solids, and in a pure foam form.

Cushion types and techniques are still being refined. For example, one important manufacturer now has patented a molded sponge rubber design which is one of the firmest and most luxurious cushions ever made. The percentage of felted cushion has been on the decrease since the development, in the last few years, of synthetic foam cushion.

Cost Nominal — Value Great

All types of cushion are made in various weights and thicknesses, suitable for various end uses. The felted cushions are measured in ounces per square yard; the rubber and polyurethane types are measured by weight and/or thickness. For example, a 40-oz. sponge rubber cushion is suitable for average home use. Carpet in a heavy-traffic commercial building might be installed over a 50-oz. felt, or ¼ inch flat slab sponge rubber.

Things to Consider

The heaviest, lushest, softest carpet cushion is not necessarily the best or the most suitable for a specific installation. On a stairway, for example, while a good grade is essential because of the extra wear imposed on stairs, it is best to have a firm cushion for a smooth, taut installation.

The best way to choose cushion is to consider it in relation to the carpet. Never try to compensate for a skimpy carpet with a thick cushion — but at the same time, don't expect a flimsy cushion to do the job under a thick, luxurious carpet. The cushion should be firm enough to support the carpet. Ask the advice of your dealer when selecting cushion for an installation, and try a simple "step test". Just place a sample of the carpet and cushion on the floor and step on both. You can quickly determine whether you prefer a "bouncy" feeling, a firmer step or something in between.

Leading manufacturers today produce all types of cushion so that you can find the one best suited to your needs. The cost is nominal — ranging from less than a dollar per square yard for lightweight cushion suitable for budget installations, to about three dollars per square yard for the finest, most luxurious "molded cup" sponge rubber cushion.

In the installation procedure, carpet installers put down cushion just to the tackless strip, which holds the carpet in place. Cushion with a "ripple" pattern is installed ripple side down.

The importance of cushion is emphasized in FHA requirements, which made the use of cushion obligatory when carpet is part of an FHA-insured mortgage.

Today, carpet values are greater than ever — and that value is increased and protected by the cushion underneath.

Finding the Right Installer A Must

You've just bought the most beautiful carpet in the world. How is he found? A good way to start is with an installer who enjoys a fine reputation. That usually means loveliness can come true if an established one—one with a solid list of satisfied customers behind him. A qualified installer should be glad to furnish references that testify to the quality of his work.

Make a point of going out and inspecting one or two of the actual installations. You will find people happy to show off their carpet and to talk to you. You might also check things out with one of the floorcovering trade associations. A qualified installer will not only be a boon to you by virtue of his good workmanship, but he will be a blessing in his ability to evaluate how such elements as temperature and humidity, size of floor area and other factors (such as furniture, bookshelves, etc.) can affect the total carpeting picture. He also will be able to recommend the proper underlay material for your installation.

So you see, in all ways, the installer plays an important role in your carpeting plans. Don't be penny-wise and yards-foolish. Spare no effort in finding the best installer. It's cheaper by the years and years of added, care-free wear!

Decorator's Dream — Architect's Tool

Shag and cut pile combine for warmth

Carpet now has changed from a luxury item to the most practical way of finishing floors. Once relegated to the living room, it has now moved throughout the home and is now suitable for any floor area including bathrooms, laundry rooms, kitchens, play areas and other almost unheard of places—even walls.

To avoid boredom in the old concept of "wall-to-wall carpeting", many decorators and architects are coordinating different areas with entirely different pile fibers in like or dissimilar patterns and prints. By using contrasting colors or contrasting types of carpet one can designate particular areas.

Perfect Coordinators

Shag and cut-pile can be perfect coordinators for practical and functional reasons as well as for creation of mood and atmosphere.

Functionally, cut pile is extremely good for heavily traveled areas such as halls, stairs and entrances and is often used to denote formality. With the advent of the 5-64" gauge cut pile carpet, hard surface areas such as kitchens, bathrooms and laundry rooms become alive and warm with cushioned comfort and noise control. Shag, too, are warm and inviting carpets. They are quite good for creating a relaxing mood and are good to use in lounges, resting or conversation areas. Thus with their utility established we may examine good coordinating examples.

Try One of These

In a formal living room, a cut pile may be used. Family room, den, or library opening off the living room could be done in the companion shag. An informal living area stretching into a dining area can be beautifully coordinated with pile carpet in dining room and shag in living area.

Some living rooms have conversation pits. Shag carpeting can be used in the pit thus setting the stage for warm, intimate conversation. The plush carpet (pile) can be used around the rest of the room.

An interesting use of the companion cut pile and shag carpets would be to do a music or stereo room. Now that carpets have moved to the walls, a plush carpet could be "walled" with a floor done in shag.

Many homes have kitchen family room areas with no dividing walls. The cut piles can be used in kitchen area and the dining area and the companion shag can be used in the seating area. Thus, you have used carpet to take the place of walls and physically separate the activity areas.

Anytime one has a large area or system of rooms that need to be treated as a whole decoratively and yet need to be separated into smaller activity or conversational areas, cut pile and shag companion rugs are the answer.

Cleaning Tips For Area Rugs And Bath Mats

Bath mats and area rugs up to 4' x 6' can be cleaned in your washing machine. The secret to restoring new beauty to small rugs is to wash them in neutral (mild) detergent and tumble dry. If tumbling action is not available, hang or spread rugs in the shade until they are dry, then brush them lightly with a stiff brush. Forced air from a vacuum or fan is helpful.

Because dyes and colors in floorcoverings, as in all types of furnishings materials, have a tendency to bleed, classify colors before placing rugs in the washing machine. Whites and very light colors may be washed together, while dark colors should be washed separately.

How to Cope With Spots, Stains

Almost every carpet or rug is the victim of spots or stains from time to time. Most of these accidents of spilling and dropping can be taken care of with little trouble. Since carpet is an especially durable home furnishing, it can withstand a great many accidents without being ruined.

The dangers of spots and stains can be minimized if the housewife will follow these three rules: (1) act quickly when anything is dropped or spilled on the carpet. Remove spots and stains before they dry. (2) try to identify what caused the spot or stain and remove it by following directions carefully.

There are two types of cleaning material which should be kept on hand at all times for quick spot cleaning of carpets and rugs. There are (1) special purpose carpet cleaning detergent and (2) non-flammable dry cleaning fluid. They are really the only two which are suitable for home use. Others about which you may hear are useful in the hands of skilled cleaners but may do considerable damage if not properly used.

General procedure in cleaning spots from your carpet is as follows:

Step 1: Remove excess materials. In the case of liquids, absorb with a clean white cloth or other absorbent material. If semi-solid, scrape with a spoon or spatula or use a sponge.

Step 2: Apply a dry-cleaning fluid, blotting gently and working from the edges of a spot or stain toward the center.

Step 3: Apply the detergent solution described above. Use a clean cloth and blot gently from the edge of the soiled area toward the center, blotting occasionally with a dry, clean cloth to absorb excess solution.

Step 4: Dry the carpet.

Step 5: Apply a dry-cleaning fluid, again blotting gently and working from the edges of the spot or stain toward the center.

Step 6: Dry the carpet and brush the pile gently to restore the original texture. In using the above general procedure, you must exercise judgment as to whether both types of cleaning solution need be applied or if any step should be repeated. For example, if the detergent solution seems to remove most of the stain, it would be wise to repeat the application.

In any type of cleaning, you must avoid getting the carpet too wet and be sure the carpet is dried as soon and as completely as possible after cleaning. In this way, mildew and other types of carpet damage can be avoided. While drying the wet areas should be raised from the floor if possible or if not, the air blast from a fan or vacuum may be directed against the area. It is also helpful to place a layer of towels, blotters or other absorbent material $\frac{1}{2}$ " thick under a weight on top of the carpet until most of the moisture is gone. These tips do not apply to such special spots as nail polish, cigarettes burns, acid substances, rust, permanent ink, or animal stains.

If a color change has taken place, you should not attempt to restore the color yourself, but call your professional cleaner.

Alexander in Key Chest Job

BRENDON D. ALEXANDER

KINGSTON, Alexander to volunteer to serve his community through involvement in the Ulster County Community Chest. Alexander has been a newsmaker in the past through his very active involvement on the Republican City committee. The Poughkeepsie-born Alexander, who is employed by the Western Publishing Company of Poughkeepsie, maintains a real estate affiliation with the offices of Mary G. Scafidi in Ulster County. He has resided in Kingston for over 20 years, and has been active with both Mental Health and the Heart Association here. He also is a member of the St. Joseph's School Parents Association, and the Wicks Hose Company of Kingston.

In commenting upon his position within the framework of the voluntary Community Chest Organization, Alexander told news media, "I want to get as many different people involved in this campaign as possible so that everyone working together can understand their Ulster County Community Chest, and in so doing, understand some of the work each of the 15 member agencies is doing. When you understand the work being done, you begin to see how essential to community life our Community Chest really is. The six week fund drive represents a lot of work for a lot of volunteers; I think that total community awareness can be a terrific help to our cause."

Alexander is additionally serving the door-to-door solicitation area with Mrs. Lillian Salapatis and Miss Marion Tongue, and assists the overall public relations efforts of this year's drive helping the staff, under Richard W. Vendettoli, executive director, and the Cabinet team headed by Triulzi.

County Blood Bank—Interest High

KINGSTON Members are called upon to donate blood on a rotation basis, with the present estimate at one pint every 18 months. As more persons join, he said, the number of pints each must give is reduced. Springer said that if a membership of 10,000 is reached, each may be asked to give one pint every three to five years.

"To help people in joining," the director said, "we have the cooperation of many business firms and professional people throughout the county who are sending applications along with their monthly statements to customers."

"In speaking to people throughout the county on the need for this plan," he said, "almost everyone realizes the importance of the Blood Bank operation. Some, however, have felt reluctant because they are already in a private company plan and do not want to lose that protection. In our primary stage—seeking 4,000 members—we are attempting to reach those people who are not members of a private plan. As far as we know, they are in the vast majority."

Others he has talked with said they had needed blood in the past for operations or other medical problems, but "did not have the blood donors on time or did not have the money to pay for the replacement of vast amounts of blood."

"Such a situation is tragic and should not be," said the director. "It is our belief that the Ulster County Blood Bank is the best protection a person can obtain. It costs next to nothing to have, and yet can save much hardship and in some cases time that can save lives."

"The Blood Bank is a non-profit community service offering a people-to-people program. We are being supported in many ways by professional groups and many individuals who realize the need. They include the Ulster County Medical Society, the three county hospitals, the Community Chest—of which we are an agency—and others."

"The one thing that is more important than the money needed to run the program is the need for members—people, for without people we can not serve the people."

One problem that Springer said many people seem to see is "they don't want to be first in line or are just in a 'wait and see' how many others join' mood. The Blood Bank will not be able to help anyone—member or not—unless the 4,000 goal is reached. Simply stated, the longer people wait to join, the longer before benefits can be offered."

"Once we begin to offer benefits, it will only be to members and their dependents. It is sad, but perhaps the only proof of our value to some people is the realization that they did not join and some day will be in need of a quantity of blood with no way of getting it except paying for it at a high premium when it is used."

Springer said he and his workers are ready to speak to any group at any time to discuss the Bank and its need. Persons or groups wanting information on the Bank are asked to write to C.P.O. Box "T," Kingston, N. Y. 12401. Application blanks may be found in many stores and in doctor's offices throughout the county.

Conservation Party Ruled Off November Election Ballot

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The Court of Appeals today ruled the Conservation party off the November election ballot.

The ruling applies to both Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, Democratic candidate for U.S. senator, who was seeking second-line exposure, and to Rep. Richard D. Max McCarthy, D-Buffalo, who was seeking an independent bid for reelection.

In a 4-3 decision, the state's highest court upheld an Appellate Division ruling that the name "Conservation" was too close in spelling to the Conservative party name and might be confusing to the voters. There was no majority opinion.

Chief Judge Stanley J. Fuld, one of the dissenters, said the Conservation party should be allowed on the ballot because it did not believe such confusion existed.

Associate Judges Adrian Burke and Francis Bergan, the other two dissenters, both said the party should be eligible for a position on the ballot after changing its name.

The decision affects all candidates who had filed on the Conservation party ticket and who had appealed to the court.

In addition to Ottinger and McCarthy, there were a number of local candidates throughout the state who had joined in the suit.

In Buffalo, there were indications McCarthy would seek a writ of certiorari to ask the United States Supreme Court to review the case.

In another decision, the court dismissed a motion by the Right to Life party which had sought a position on the gubernatorial ballot. The anti-abortion group sought to run a Long Island housewife, Mrs. Jane I. Gilroy, for governor.

The high court said there was no constitutional question in the party's case and, therefore, refused to hear its appeal. Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo had ruled the party off the ballot because its nominating petition did not contain sufficient valid signatures.

The court also ruled that Herman Badillo, former Bronx borough president, does not have to face another primary in his bid for a congressional seat.

One of Badillo's five opponents in the Democratic primary, Peter F. Vallone, had sought outcome of the primary would be affected.

The court said, "still another case, that of the Independent Alliance of the Independent Alliance, which is running the primary with an alliance party, which is running 7,732 votes and Vallone was James Buckley for the U.S. second with 7,145. The Court of Senate, were in order.

David C. Weisberg had sought court, which said that if the party ruled off the ballot, the regularities were spread among ballot on the ground the petition name in the emblem so a new of the six contenders on the basis were not valid and that one was necessary, Lomenzo of mathematical probability, the Lomenzo should not have allowed the party to change its emblem after the deadline for filing petitions.

Lomenzo had allowed the party to change its emblem after the deadline for filing petitions.

2 Buffalo Cops Wounded, Prisoner Slain at Hospital

BUFFALO (AP)—Two city policemen were wounded and a prisoner was shot to death today in an exchange of gunfire outside Meyer Memorial Hospital, a physician said.

The shooting apparently broke out as police were taking a prisoner to the hospital, owned by Erie County and in the northeast section of the city.

Only Tuesday night, a Buffalo policeman was shot to death in a motel room in a Rochester suburb. Police said that shooting was accidental, although a fellow policeman was arrested.

Dr. Robert Wilbe, associate director of the hospital, tentatively identified the policemen as Joseph O'Neil and Edward Young. O'Neil was reported in critical condition with a wound in the torso. Young was shot in the thigh and was reported less seriously hurt.

The prisoner was not identified immediately. Wilbe said he was pronounced dead in the emergency room.

A nurse, who said she saw "the last part of the shooting," said it appeared "that three officers were attempting to bring the prisoner in."

"He somehow got a gun and started shooting at the officers," she said. "They returned the fire."

The shooting occurred outside the emergency room.

In the Rochester suburb of Greece, Buffalo Patrolman John D. McDonald, 25, was struck near the heart by a bullet while he and Patrolman Michael J. Swayne, 30, also of the Buffalo Police Department, "were experimenting with their guns," said Lt. Robert Griffin of the Greece town police.

Earlier in the day, McDonald and Swayne had competed in a statewide police pistol tournament in Greece.

Griffin said "I strictly believe it was an accidental shooting."

Swayne was charged with criminally negligent homicide.

Let It Snow ... Medical Center Births Doubled

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Albany Medical Center reported Tuesday that births at the hospital Sept. 25-27, exactly nine months after a 26-inch snow storm hit the capital district, were about twice the normal four per day.

The 151 births at the Medical center in September was the highest number for any month in the last four years, the hospital said.

Military Newspapers Under Government Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. comptroller general is probing arrangements under which hundreds of military newspapers are published for private profit with all editorial work done by servicemen. The investigation was launched after disclosures that —Airmen at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., were ordered this summer to clip out a picture of a general from 10,000 copies of the base newspaper, the Talespinner. The clip job was ordered because of complaints about the cropping of the general's picture. —10,000 copies of a Newport R.I. Navy base magazine worth $1 a copy were dumped into the trash because a picture of a ship had been misidentified. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., urged the investigation by the comptroller general who heads the General Accounting Office. He said the Talespinner case raises the question: "Does the government lose revenue to which it is entitled because of arrangements under which private businessmen publish unofficial newspapers with the labor of military personnel?" In reply to Pentagon officials, Proxmire indicated he believes the answer is "yes." Proxmire said the four airmen who do the editorial work on the Lackland Talespinner are paid a total of $189.98 weekly. He asked whether any other civilian publisher would be able to hire four editors and reporters at that pay to put out a similar publication. "What is more," he said, "the publisher profits, by not having to pay for photographic and other supplies, office space, and the work of three airmen who distribute the paper." The publisher gains all of the profit from the advertising, yet his profit is enhanced because he pays less in overhead than if he were producing the entire newspaper," Proxmire said. Proxmire said he has been told such situations are commonplace in the Air Force and said he wants to know whether other branches of the armed forces employ similar arrangements. "At least," Proxmire told a newsman, "the Air Force did much as $25,000 within the last year." Talespinner at Lackland and the loss in time did not come close to equaling the $10,000 thrown to the sharks in Newport." The Providence Journal said it had learned monthly overprintings of the Cruiser-Destroyer, the official organ of the Atlantic fleet cruiser-destroyer force, have cost taxpayers as much as $25,000 within the last year. A Navy spokesman at Newport said the $10,000 figure was "way out of line." He estimated the cost of the junked issue at $850 and said the entire issue was reprinted in August with the ship identified properly. The spokesman said the cost of monthly overprintings of Cruiser-Destroyer is about $10 for each 1,000 issues—the cost of the paper used.

From Ulster and Northern Dutchess

Local Men at Service Academies

THOMAS NEAL

EDMOND RANSFORD

Six young men from Ulster County and northern Dutchess County are enrolled at service academies studying for degrees and commissions in the Air Force and the Coast Guard.

Two men from Rhinebeck, Edmond L. Ransford III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond L. Ransford Jr. of 23 Kalina Drive, Forest Park, and Thomas W. Neal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil R. Neal of 2 Orchard Street, are among the 821 cadets who have entered their junior year at the academy in Colorado Springs.

Meanwhile, at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., Cadet Third Class Dana C. Helsley, son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Bain of 37 Broadway, Tivoli, has started his second academic year at the academy while members of the freshman class include Michael D. Sabino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sabino of Lake Katrine; Robert L. Gazley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Gazley of Kerhonkson; Christopher M. Schoonmaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Schoonmaker of Stone Ridge.

All three are scheduled to graduate in June of 1974 with bachelor of science degrees and commissions as ensigns in the Coast Guard. Helsley will graduate in June of 1973.

According to the Air Force Academy, Cadet Ransford will serve during the fall term as an element sergeant with the rank of cadet technical sergeant. He was elected for the position, the academy said, because of his leadership and effectiveness ratings. Cadet Neal, also honored because of his leadership and effectiveness, will serve during the fall term as a squadron element sergeant with the rank of cadet technical sergeant.

During the past summer Cadet Ransford was a survival training instructor for sophomores in the rugged Rampart Range surrounding the Academy. Cadet Neal served as an instructor in the rigorous basic training course for members of the academy's incoming freshman class.

Cadet Ransford also completed a three-week course in basic parachuting at the U.S. Airborne Training Center at Fort Benning, Ga. He volunteered for the required five jumps to qualify for the military parachutist insignia.

Both cadets will be awarded a B.S. degree and commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Force upon graduation.

Robert Ashcroft
Navy Seaman Apprentice Robert R. Ashcroft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Ashcroft of Rifton, was graduated from basic training at the Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

He attended Kingston High School.

Decorations For Area GIs

Army Sp/5 Richard S. Lecessee, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Lecessee of 147 South Ohioville Road, New Paltz, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal at Fort Knox, Ky. in late August for service in Vietnam.

Also winning Army decorations were Private First Class Enrique Martinez, son of Mrs. Avren Galletti of 7 North Main Street, Ellenville, who was awarded the Army Commendation Medal while serving with the 101st Airborne Division in Vietnam.

First Lieutenant Kenneth Briggs Jr., whose parents live on Primrose Hill Road, Rhinebeck, received the Air Medal on Aug. 27 near Can Tho, Vietnam.

Lt. Briggs earned the award for meritorious service while participating in aerial flight in support of ground operations in Vietnam. He entered the Army in April of 1964 and was last stationed at Hunter Army Airfield, Ga.

Private Martinez received his award for meritorious service as rifleman in the Division's 506 Infantry. He entered the Army in August of last year and took basic training at Fort Gordon, Ga. Private Martinez also wears the Combat Infantryman's Badge.

Sp/5 Lecessee was presented the Bronze Star for distinguishing himself through meritorious service in connection with military operations against hostile forces in Vietnam.

Specialist Lecessee earned the award during his last assignment with the 25th Infantry Division in Vietnam.

In other Army news, Specialist Five Henry W. Burdine, son of Mrs. Dolores De Faco, Route 2, Highland, took part in an Army Air Defense Command "Short Notice Annual Practice" (SNAP) at the NAMFI Range on the island of Crete.

He is a member of Battery A, 3D Battalion, 71st Artillery near Dailau, Germany.

Participating units are given only 48 hours warning before being airlifted to the range.

While at the site, crewmen fired live missiles against radio-controlled aerial targets, the annual testing is designed to keep air defense units in a state of constant readiness to perform their missions.

Specialist Burdine entered the Army in July 1967.

Sgt. Hill In Vietnam

U.S. Air Force Sergeant Christopher H. Hill, son of Walter F. Hill, 148 Main Street, Saugerties, is on duty at Tuy Hoa AB, Vietnam.

Sergeant Hill, an administrative specialist, is assigned to the 31st Combat Support Group, a unit of the Pacific Air Forces, headquarters for air operations in Southeast Asia, the Far East and Pacific area. He previously served at Hamilton AFB, Calif.

The sergeant graduated in 1966 from Saugerties High School and attended Golden Gate College. His wife, Linda, is the daughter of Alton Biengino, 521 Crinella, Petaluma, Calif.

John Horkan

U.S. Air Force Sergeant John M. Horkan, son of Mrs. James Horkan Sr. of Rt. 1, Red Hook, is on duty at Cam Ranh Bay AB, Vietnam.

Sergeant Horkan is a food services specialist with the USAF Hospital. Before his arrival in Vietnam, he served at North Charleston (S.C.) Air Force Station.

The sergeant graduated in 1955 from Red Hook Central High School.

Service In Training

HAROLD SULK—son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sulka of Long-year Avenue, Tillson, is now at Fort Monmouth, N. J. for advance training in the field of electronics. The 17-year old soldier completed eight weeks basic training at Fort Dix, N. J. after enlisting in the Army.

MRS. RONALD H. BERARDINO
(Lakeside Studio)

Polimine - Berardino Nuptials

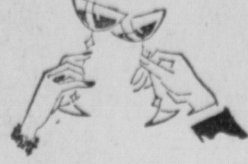

Miss Linda Rose Polimine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Polimine of RD 1, Box 425, Stone Ridge, exchanged nuptial vows with Ronald Henry Berardino, son of Shirley Berardino, Far Rockaway, on Saturday, Sept. 26 at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale.

The Rev. Robert Saccoman officiated at the double ring ceremony. Vases of white chrysanthemums decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of satin faille, fashioned with a high necked bodice and full sleeves of Alencon lace. The front was appliqued with a seed pearl, V-shaped panel of matching lace. The circular train was chapel length. She wore a lace-edged mantilla draped to a Camelot cap.

Mrs. Pat Smith of Stone Ridge was matron of honor in a sheath-type gown of violet Georgette crepe, styled with an Empire bodice and long sleeves. The high neckline and cuffs featured ruffles of self-fabric. She wore a stylized headpiece of velvet flowers with a tulle flirtation veil, and carried a cascade of chrysanthemums and ivy.

Attendants were Nancy and Joann Berardino, sisters of the bridegroom, Far Rockaway. They wore empire style gowns of violet, fashioned with bodices of Georgette crepe and skirts of violet karate. The high necklines and sleeves featured ruffles of self-fabric. The waistlines were encircled with matching floral braid. They wore stylized headpieces of velvet flowers with a tulle flirtation veil and carried cascades of Fumi chrysanthemums and ivy.

Ashton Smith, Stone Ridge, brother-in-law of the bride, served as best man. Ushers were Steven and Gary Berardino, brother of the bridegroom Far Rockaway.

A reception for 95 guests was held at Walnut Grove Restaurant in Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a two-piece plaid dress ensemble.

The bride is a graduate of Rondout Valley Central High School. Her husband is serving in the U.S. Navy aboard USS Little Rock and will be employed as a deck hand on Bronx Towing Line Tugboats.

Mr. and Mrs. Berardino will reside at Boston, Mass.

Couple Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Denike of Astoria, Long Island, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at a surprise dinner-party given by their children in Plattisich Restaurant, West Hempstead, L.I. The gala event took place Saturday, Sept. 19.

The party was planned by their daughters Mrs. J. Harvey O'Connell of West Hurley, N.Y., and Mrs. Arthur D. O'Connor of West Hempstead, L.I.

Among those attending were the Mr. and Mrs. Denike's sons-in-law Dr. J. Harvey O'Connell of West Hurley, Arthur D. O'Connor of West Hempstead, seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Also attending was Lillian Bischoff of Rutherford, N.J., who had served as honor attendant at the wedding 50 years ago.

The couple received many congratulatory messages and gifts including a trip to Nassau, a gift from their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mr. Denike has been retired for the past seven years from the United Dress Beef Company in New York City. He is past commander of the Catholic War Vets, Chedwick

Pantomime' at New Paltz This Saturday, Sunday

"It gives me a special delight to announce that the first artistic production of the academic year presents a delightful and gifted pair of young performers," Dr. John J. Neumaier, president, State University College at New Paltz said. "Jack and Graciela Hill are gifted performers and a real addition to the stage in this community. They have just been named Artists in Residence at the College. I hope they will be particularly welcome at the local schools because their art has such a great appeal for children."

Mr. and Mrs. Hill will present "Pantomime" at the McKenna theatre, Saturday, Oct. 10, at 2 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. and October 11 at 2 p. m. The two mimes perform for 90 minutes. The first half of their show consists of "images," and the second half of series of pantomime stories.

In the first half, Jack and Graciela use their medium to communicate directly to the audience, through movement and gesture, about animals, games, common situations, humor and pathos.

In the second half, the theatre character of Pierrot is the central figure of a series of white-face stories. One is about the sculptor evoking an image from a block of Marble; another is "Jack the Giant Killer"; another, "the Wooden Sword," a fantasy of a boy seeing himself as a knight; other stories include "The Balloon Vendor," "The traveling Troubadour," and "the Last Clown," the tragedy of an old clown playing to an empty circus tent.

Jack Hill, originally of Rochester, studied and worked closely with Marcel Marceau in France. His early training was with Solomon Yakim, the foremost Israeli mime, and Tony Montanaro.

Graciela Binaghi Hill was born in Buenos Aires and studied and danced in South America for a number of years. Later she studied with Isaac Alvarez in France, and joined the mime school of Marcel Marceau, and also performed with the International Mime Company of Ella Jaroszewicz in Paris.

Pantomime is recognized as the oldest of the performing arts. By his movement, the mime sculptures imagination from empty space and transforms himself, through images to dramatic meanings that are familiar only to our imagination.

Testimonial Dinner Honors 'Old Timers'

It was a sentimental occasion Sunday evening when the Town of Olive Democratic Club hosted five "old timers" at a testimonial dinner at the Boiceville Inn, in recognition of their long years of loyalty and service to the community.

The honored guests were: Millard F. Bell, of Brown Station; Raymond Bell, of West Shokan; Albert Fox Sr., of Olivebridge; Mrs. Delia Lewis, of Olivebridge; and Mrs. Genevieve McLean of Shokan.

These "old timers" are all either native born in the Town of Olive, or longtime residents, who have served many years in various important capacities.

At the date with the guests was master of ceremonies, Carl A. Olson, candidate for Town Justice, Catherine H. Carlson, prominent Shokan attorney, introduced the guests and presented the gifts.

Among the town officials present were Justice Vincent Barringer and Tax Collector Margaret Kunkle. Also present were Fire Chief Al Fox and Ida Mae Marlatt, Shokan postmaster, among many notables and friends who came to honor the invited guests. A former Republican Town Justice, Bradford Kelder, showed his regard for the "old timers" by attending also.

Ulster and Dutchess county candidate for the State Senate, David Lenefsky, who is a resident of West Shokan, attended the dinner with his wife, Barbara. Other important candidates such as George Barthel, for State Assembly, and Alex J. Nirenberg for District Attorney, Ulster County, were also present to take part in this festive occasion.

GIFT FOR CLUB TREASURER'S DAUGHTER

Dear Mrs. Post: This is a peculiar situation! My husband and I belong to a small club that meets socially once a month. Regular dues are paid and the money is used for various purposes—New Year's Eve parties, flowers for hospitalized members and wedding gifts for members' children. As gift chairman, I have purchased a wedding gift for a member's daughter. Now how do I diplomatically present the treasurer with the bill—it's his daughter. Please Help, Mrs. R. J.

Mrs. R. J.: Since this is not a special circumstance just the usual procedure for your club—treat it exactly as you would any other gift. Send a bill or a personal letter to him requesting payment for "Mary's gift." He knows the club's procedures and will surely not pass on to Mary the amount spent.

Address on Reply Cards

Dear Mrs. Post: Usually the reply envelope in a wedding invitation is addressed to the bride's mother. However, our wedding will be rather large and given by my fiancé and me. His parents are helping with the reception and I have therefore included their names on the invitations. Would it be proper for me to put my name and address on the reply envelopes?—Elizabeth.

Dear Elizabeth: Yes. The name and address on the reply envelope is simply that of the person who most needs to know how many acceptances and regrets arrive. It may be the bride, her mother, another relative, or anyone else in the position of hostess—or host.

Roberto's
CELEBRATES AN UNINFLATED FIRST ANNIVERSARY

For the past year everybody and his brother has been talking about inflation, but as Mark Twain said about the weather: EVERYBODY TALKS ABOUT IT, BUT NOBODY DOES ANYTHING ABOUT IT!

Except here at ROBERTO'S; we actually DID something about it! Just for the record, we'd like to compare our opening menu of October, 1969, with our menu of today.

In 1969 our menu noted (as still do comparable menus hereabouts): Baked Clams, $1.50 EXTRA! Shrimp Cocktail, $1.50 EXTRA! Escargots Bourguignonne, $1.75 EXTRA! Etcetera, etcetera, etcetera. In 1970, not only are these same

Premium Appetizers Served Without Extra Charge
. . . as are the "Premium Desserts" which also formerly were marked "EXTRA" . . . but over and above everything else, you can start your repast with your favorite cocktail or highball. All this on complete dinners from only $5.50.

So—whether you're a businessman who can add, or a housewife who knows how much the cost of food has gone up this past year, you'll understand that is an even greater value than ever—the most lavish, luxurious full-course Dinner Bargain in the Mid-Hudson Valley. But that's not all!

You say you don't want to wade through a whole lavish Roberto's Dinner? You say you're watching your weight? Sorry . . . we can't upset our traditional Dinner Menu to help you . . . that would be unfair to the folks who relish our complete Dinner from Cocktail to After Dinner Mints. But tell you what we're gonna do: To start our Second Year we're inaugurating an EXTRA ADDED ATTRACTION that we call our

which will include your BREAD & BUTTER, your ENTREE with Vegetable and Potato, your SALAD with Roberto's own Dressing, and your COFFEE! (If you insist, you could order an Appetizer or Dessert a la Carte, but then, what would be the sense of ordering one of these specials?)

PRIME SIRLOIN MINUTE STEAK 5.50
Not hip steak, skirt steak, flank steak or any of the inventions of the "short menu" "Steak Houses," but the only kind of beef ROBERTO knows . . . PRIME SHELL SIRLOIN STEAK . . . not a heck of a lot smaller than our regular Dinner Steak!

VEAL ESCALOPINE EMILIANA 5.00
The masterpiece of "Scallopini" . . . of tender milk-fed veal, interlarded with Prosciutto and Cheese . . . Roberto's gourmet version of this truly great Continental Favorite.

BREAST OF CHICKEN PARIGIANA 4.50
WITH RAVIOLI! Boned Breast of Plump Poultry, artfully broiled, gratinee au Parmesan, and served with tender, meaty Ravioli graced by Roberto's own flavorful sauce.

You don't have to lunch or dine (although it's a splendid idea!) to enjoy your favorite drinks in Roberto's

PICTURE-WINDOWED COCKTAIL LOUNGE
overlooking the Hudson—where great, great drinks won't cost you too much! The Lounge is in a cozy corner of its own, separated from the dining room itself. Day or night, from noon 'til the wee small hours, it's a genial, genteel rendezvous for COCKTAILS AND CONVERSATION . . . plus smart ORGAN MUSIC on Friday and Saturday nights. By the way, Monday through Friday is when the gals can have any cocktail at half-price!

VINTAGE FAN — Cornelius Blackman 74, of Chicago displays past World Series ticket stubs. Blackman was at the ticket window 24 hours when it opened at 6 p. m. yesterday. Baseball's Brass Huddles With Umps

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's top brass huddles with major league umpires today, hoping to whack out a final settlement and give clear sailing to the World Series. Umpire representatives, joined by their attorney, Jack Reynolds and of Chicago, were scheduled to meet in Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office along with American League President Joe Cronin and National League chief Charles "Chub" Feeney.

The Major League Umpires Association struck the first game of the baseball playoffs last Saturday in Pittsburgh and Minneapolis-St. Paul, but went back to work Sunday under a temporary agreement of $3,000 per man for the playoffs and $7,000 for the series.

The umpires have been asking $5,000 and $10,000, which would amount to a $2,500 and $3,500 raise over the amount the owners had previously agreed to pay.

Baseball authorities agreed to further negotiations after other labor unions—those governing ticket takers, vendors and bus drivers—refused to cross the umpires' picket lines in Pittsburgh.

Augie Donatelli of the American League, a director of the umpires association, has indicated there may be another strike if negotiations fail.

Retired major league umpires and others from the minor leagues were used in the first playoff games. They received $3,000 a man for the game.

Raiders Roll Over Sawyers

SAUGERTIES — "It was our worst performance of the season," said Saugerties Cross Country Coach Bud Smith as he told how his team of harriers was defeated Tuesday by visiting Red Hook.

"Nobody pressured the Red Hook runners and they just kept coming in," he said. "We're young, though, about 30 seconds away. I'm sure that we will improve," concluded Smith.

Red Hook did come through with the first four places to ice the victory with all four runners being just 12 seconds apart.

Dave Kilgour was the first to cross the line for the Raiders, coming across the line in 13:30. Charlie Damon took second in 13:36 with John Thompson hitting the tape in 13:37 and Pete Hand following in 13:42.

Senior runner Gary Myers was the first Sawyer to hit the finish line. His time was 13:49.

Arizona State A Sizzling Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Arizona State, compiling the second-best three-game start in major college football history, bumped West Virginia from the top spot in total offense this week.

West Virginia, which only last week had averaged 602.7 yards per game in total offense for the best mark ever, dropped to fourth with an average of 526.6 for four games.

Arizona State moved into the lead on 1,714 yards in 266 plays for an average of 571.3, according to the weekly statistics released today by the National College Sports Services.

Like West Virginia the previous week, this bettered the 566.0 Stanford averaged for its three first games in 1969, but which now is third on the all-time list.

The NCAA at first said Arizona State had set the record but later said this was a mistake and that West Virginia still was No. 1 for the strongest three-game start.

Southern California ranked second with a 537.8 average, followed by Notre Dame at 534.7.

Playoff Was Bigger—Nolan

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Gary Nolan will be the starting pitcher in Cincinnati's first World Series game since 1961, but as far as Nolan is concerned his biggest assignment is behind him.

"Winning the playoffs was the most important thing," Nolan said. "It was bigger than winning the World Series because we needed it to get into the World Series."

Nolan, a 13-year-old California high school pupil the last time the Reds won a pennant, shut out the Pittsburgh Pirates for nine innings in the first National League playoff game and picked up the victory when the Reds won 3-0 in the 10th.

They followed with 3-1 and 3-2 wins and face the Baltimore Orioles here Saturday in the World Series opener.

"I'll have a lot of time to think about the Orioles, but I don't think the pressure will build up enough to bother me," Nolan said. "I'm sort of a calm, down-to-earth guy."

"I think there's more pressure fighting to get into the World Series. Once you're there, pride will carry you. If you have a good game, you win that's all."

During the regular season, Nolan completed only 4 of 37 starts while posting an 18.7 record and 3.26 earned run average. He was not concerned that the week's rest between last Saturday's playoff opener and his Saturday's series opener might bother him.

"I need four or five days to recuperate after winning the pennant," he said. "Maybe I shouldn't say recuperate. I didn't go on a four-day drunk." Jim Russo, the Baltimore scout who trailed the Reds the in 1967 after less than a full season in the low minors and Nolan also has one of the best compiled a 14-8 record, including five shutouts, and a 2.58 earned run average. But he Edwards, the former Cincinnati threw too hard and hurt his catcher.

Nolan pitched against the 1966 and 1969 in the minors. Orioles once before, in spring 1969, but doesn't remember much about them.

"I've learned already what training of 1969, but doesn't many pitchers don't learn until late in their careers," he said. "They don't know much about I've developed the curve and I can pace myself. I'm a more complete pitcher now."

White Houses Are Tricky

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Forget about the Astroturf in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

Instead, think about the white houses over the knoll beyond the outfield at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

At least manager Earl Weaver of the Baltimore Orioles thinks those white houses are going to be more of a factor in the World Series than the Astroturf.

Of course, the turf has been a main topic of conversation in the pre-game speculation since Cincinnati is the first team to host a World Series with an artificial surface. The Orioles aren't used to playing on it since Chicago has the only artificial surface in the American League — and even there it's only on the infield.

But Weaver claims those white houses will bother the Reds more than Astroturf will bother the Orioles.

Although some observers think Baltimore should go to Cincinnati early to practice on the turf, Weaver says, "The Reds are the team which should come here early to practice against that hitting background. Our field will be more of a factor than their field."

The white houses on the knoll beyond the outfield, rarely pose a problem, since the Orioles play a majority of their games at night—but in the day time the ball comes right out of those white houses.

The Minnesota players complained in the series that their players were definitely afraid of getting hit, because they couldn't pick up the ball against the white background," Weaver said. "It even bothers our players, but they're more used to it."

It may be a coincidence but in the four World Series games and three playoff games played in October in this park in the last five years, most have been low scoring games. The scores have been 1-0, 1-0, 4-3 in 12 innings, 1-0 in 11 innings, 4-1, 2-1, and 6-1.

It may also be a coincidence that the Orioles have won six of those seven games losing only 2-1 to Jerry Koosman in the second game of last year's Series.

Weaver said the Orioles did give the Astroturf a lot of thought before deciding it wasn't necessary to go to Saturday before the game, Cincinnati before Friday for Saturday's first game.

"After talking to the players, I honestly didn't feel it was necessary to go to Cincinnati early. The Robinsons and Boog Powell played in the stadium in the All-Star game and they all said all you needed was one practice to get accustomed to the field. And we'll have two since we'll have one on Saturday before the game, besides one on Friday."

Baltimore had an off day

Tuesday but will practice at moisture and its length," home on Wednesday and Weaver said.

Asked about the fact that the Orioles are listed as a slight favorite in the odds, Weaver have trouble with the Baltimore smiled. "Jimmy the Greek grass. "Grass can change a lot doesn't know about those white every day depending on the houses."

Onteora Wins

RONDOUT Schussler followed 20 seconds later. Rondout's record dropped to 2-1.

Onteora's next action will be in a triangular meet with Highland and New Paltz on Tuesday.

All-American Gridder Even on Minus Yardage

By HENRY J. STANTON
Associated Press Writer
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 0-3 football team is not the usual place to look for a mid-season All-American candidate.

Yet, when the team's quarterback, still a junior, has just suffered the worst game of his career but is still averaging 5.5 yards a carry, and is closing in on the school rushing record, you look twice.

Cortland stopped Ithaca's Bombers 7-0 last Saturday, which in itself is nothing unusual. What was spectacular was that Doug Campbell was held to minus rushing yardage. He has never failed to get at least 100 yards before.

Five yards a carry? Yes. And before last weekend's debacle he was averaging a lot better, 7.5 to be exact.

Last year Doug averaged 5.5 yards a carry and about 148.9 yards per game. Now he is just under 504 yards short of an Ithaca record, as a junior.

As last week's game proved, having a first-rate quarterback can have its disadvantages. When the opposition can key on one player and bind up a major part of the offense, the strong link in the chain becomes a liability.

Susquehanna gridgers are spending a good part of this week studying game films and close-ups of just how Campbell works. Their coach, Jim Hazlett, puts it this way. "If Campbell plays like he did last year and our defense doesn't improve, we'll lose... It's as simple as that."

Hazlett does not intend to lose. Now that he has tasted a really tragic defeat, Doug will be under pressure when the teams meet this Saturday. The question is: does he have enough to overcome not just one or two tacklers, but a whole team?

His coach Jim Butterfield thinks he does. As a matter of fact, he looks forward to seeing Campbell in the pros some day. "Doug has the heart to play big - time football," Butterfield said recently. "He loves the contact and has the dedication to the game that is necessary when you are thinking about professional ranks."

If he does make the pros, chances are it will be in the defensive backfield. Campbell is 6-foot-2 and weighs in at 200 pounds. Still he can cover 40 yards in 4.6.

Those are the kind of paper prospects that make defensive backfield coaches drool.

Actually the youngster played defensive ball back in high school. To hear him tell it, the only time the coach would let him have the ball going forward was "for some mop-up jobs" such as when the game was out of reach or on ice.

That coach was Rush Henrietta's Paul McKee. It was McKee who alerted Butterfield to the prospect other colleges were overlooking. Campbell graduated from the Rochester suburb high school in 1968.

UCCC Beaten In X-Country

MORGAN HILL, Ulster County Community College finds the going rough in its effort to establish a cross country power at the Stone Ridge campus.

With six runners missing from action for various reasons — some permanently — Coach Al DiBernardo's harriers dropped their third straight meet here Tuesday, losing by a hairline to the new Columbia-Greene Community College of Hudson, 27-28, in the gruelling 3.7 course that winds around Oehler Mountain Lodge's fumes soccer complex.

Pat Flood of Columbia-Greene, the first runner across the line, was clocked in 20 minutes, 10 seconds, 42 seconds faster than Gary Flowers, who led UCCC runners across the finish line.

Following Flowers came Al Mercurio and Bob Tomaszewski for Ulster, but the Columbia County runners clinched the victory by taking the fourth through tenth places.

"We still need more personnel," said Coach DiBernardo. "We lost six today and it's going to be hard to replace them. This is a fairly new sport at Ulster and it's going to take a while before we find our bearings."

Tim Sanford placed fifth for Columbia-Greene, with teammates Daryl Simmons, Fred Young and Marty Bayne trailing in that order.

NEW YORK (AP) — The conference races get going in earnest this weekend with such early classics as Southern California-Stanford in the Pacific Missouri-Nebraska in the Big Eight, Michigan-Purdue in the Big Ten and Princeton and Dartmouth in the Ivy League. Spicing the menu are such traditional staples as the annual Texas-Oklahoma war in Dallas and Army-Notre Dame at South Bend.

Southern California at Stanford—Three minutes after last year's game was over, with USC winning 26-24 on Ron Ayala's last-second 34-yard field goal, hardly any of the 82,812 stunned spectators had left the Los Angeles Coliseum. The year before it was 27-24, with Ayala also providing the winning points on a 34-yard field goal. In fact, USC has beaten Stanford 12 in a row since 1957. So you know the Indians are out for revenge and they had to be thinking Trojan thoughts when they lost to Purdue last weekend, with Jim Plunkett throwing five interceptions. Stanford kept five injured regulars out of the Purdue game and four of them are expected back Saturday. "Plunkett is as good as any quarterback who ever played out here," says USC's John McKay. But the Trojans have a quarterback named Jimmy Jones, who, says McKay, "has one advantage—he's never lost a game." In McKay's words, Southern Cal "runs at you for a while and then passes over. They run at you with as deep a group of backs as any coach could want—tailbacks Clarence Davis, Lou Harris, Mike Berry and Rod McNeil and fullbacks Charlie Evans, Sam Cunningham and Bill Holland. Attention Rose Bowl: Your host team in January will be... Southern Cal. Missouri at Nebraska—Mizzou's 17-7 victory last year enabled the Tigers to tie the Cornhuskers for the Big Eight title. This time, they both have great runners, slippery receivers and strong lines, but Nebraska also has a quarterback... two, in fact, Nebraska. Michigan at Purdue—The Boilermakers went from the ridiculous to the sublime, losing to Notre Dame 48-0 and upsetting Stanford 26-14. Michigan has had trouble scoring, but so have their foes, Purdue. Mississippi at Georgia—No one else has been able to stop Archie Manning so why should Georgia? No reason. Ole Miss. Princeton at Dartmouth—These bitter rivals triple-dipped with Yale for the Ivy crown a year ago when Princeton ended Yale's UCLA. Dartmouth's unbeaten season with a 35-7 triumph in the finale. Cyclones have a 3-0 record for the first time since 1961. They tie for eight of the 15 years of formal Ivy play.

A high school prospect who visited Princeton last February after spending some time at Dartmouth told Coach Jake McCandless, "You'd better be ready for Dartmouth in the fall because they're playing the game right now."

But quarterback Jim Chaisey's ankle may still be a bit tender while Princeton has its quickest team in years, Princeton. Oklahoma vs. Texas at Dallas—This game will have to do until World War III comes along. It's an annual attraction of the Texas State Fair and the Friday night pep rallies and near riots in downtown Dallas have become legendary. Besides, Darrell Royal got the winning habit when he played for Oklahoma, but he now coaches at... Texas.

Army at Notre Dame—After Nebraska and Tennessee, what else can happen to Army? Don't ask, Notre Dame.

Tennessee at Georgia Tech—one else has been able to stop Tennessee's looked great at home, so-so on the road and this Georgia? No reason. Ole Miss. game's at... Georgia Tech.

Oregon at UCLA—Can the Bruins rebound after their heart-breaking loss to Texas? year ago when Princeton ended Yes, UCLA.

Iowa State at Colorado—The Cyclones have a 3-0 record for the first time since 1961. They didn't make it 4-0 then and they won't now, Colorado.

The Hawks are 2-1 on the road and will be hosting Oneonta on Saturday.

Unitas Proves He's Human

Today's Sport Parade
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The greatest quarterback ever to play professional football turns out to be exactly like everybody else...completely human.

He disobeyed his coach.

In a book he has written, Johnny Sample said this about Johnny Unitas:

"He is, in my opinion, the greatest quarterback ever to play professional football."

Johnny Sample played cornerback for both the Baltimore Colts and New York Jets. One of his best friends is Joe Namath and when he was passing out bouquets like "that you'd think Sample would think about Namath. He did and still named Unitas."

This past Sunday in Boston with the Colts leading the Patriots, 7-6, and only a few minutes left in the game, Baltimore coach Don McCafferty sent Unitas into the contest with specific instructions to throw the ball three times and then kick. McCafferty didn't want to take any chances on an interception.

Disobeyed Coach

With a third-and-two situation on the Colts' 45, Johnny Unitas disobeyed his coach.

He passed to Roy Jefferson, tossing one of those short lob jobs, and Jefferson footed it all the way for an insurance TD. When Unitas got back to the sidelines, McCafferty was angry on one hand yet happy on the other.

"I gave him a chewing out," the Baltimore coach said, with much of his original displeasure already gone. "I had told him to run the ball three times and then kick. It could have cost us the game."

Unitas wasn't too upset. "It wasn't the first time," he said about McCafferty's knuck-le-rapping. "Nor will it be the last."

By nature Johnny Unitas doesn't go around deliberately disobeying those who are being paid to direct him. He gets no big thrill out of taking a whack at the Establishment because the truth is he is part of the Establishment himself.

But with it all he's human. He's so human that even though he brushed the whole thing off and insisted it didn't bother him when the hometown fans leered at him during a bad performance against the Kansas City Chiefs last week, he did.

Nobody in Baltimore's sports history ever drew greater acclaim from its own people than 37-year-old Johnny Unitas has. That means nobody—Babe Ruth, Lefty Grove, Gino Marchetti, Brooks Robinson, Alan Ameche or Frank Robinson.

Fans Boo Him

Then these same people turned around and booed Johnny Unitas. You know how he felt? How do you think he felt?

There are some who even now say maybe Unitas doesn't have it anymore. Unitas tries to pay no attention.

"This is my 15th year and that's a long time," he says, "but I hope to play a few more years the good Lord willing."

Unitas enjoys playing for McCafferty. More, apparently, when Shula was here, than he did for Don Shula, now coaching the Miami Dolphins.

"It's different than it was when Shula was here," the Colts' quarterback says. "You don't have all the hollering and screaming we used to have. I'm not saying anything derogatory toward Shula. That was his way. He's a great coach as far as I'm concerned. I had no problem with him. If I didn't like something I told him; if he didn't like something he told me, and if we had to disagree with each other, we disagreed with that was it. It was this way or that way but of course nine times out of ten it came up his way because he was the boss."

And what about McCafferty?

McCafferty Different

"He goes about things in a different way," Unitas says. "We concentrate on getting the things done that he wants to get done and when that's taken care of, the whistle blows and you're off the field. I think the attitude of the players is quite a bit better than it used to be."

Johnny Unitas is getting up there in years but he wants to keep going. Naturally, he wants to keep looking good also.

He's human.

Shaw Picked As Top Star

BUFFALO (AP) — Dennis Shaw, rookie quarterback of the National Football League's Buffalo Bills, got his first starting assignment Sunday and made the most of it.

He completed 12 of 21 passes for 317 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Bills to a 34-31 upset victory over the visiting New York Jets.

Tuesday, the performance resulted in his naming as offensive player of the week by The Associated Press.

"Hey, great!" the 6-foot-2, 209-pound San Diego State product said when he learned of the designation.

"It seems like everything is coming at once," he said. "It was our first victory. I got the game ball and now I've been named offensive player of the week. It's more than you really anticipate."

Noting his 63 per cent pass completion average, a reporter asked the confident Shaw whether he has found pro football easier than he expected.

"No, not really," he said with a chuckle. "I came to camp late (because of a contract dispute), but I really got a lot of good help. I've learned by making mistakes. I'm trying to make the most of it."

He said the Bills' other quarterbacks, second-year men Dan Darragh and James Harris, have helped him a lot.

"They haven't been a bit selfish. This has really been a team effort," he said.

He especially had help Sunday from Martin Briscoe, who took his two TD passes, and O.J. Simpson, who scored on a 95-yard kickoff return.

Bills Coach John Rauch said the 22-year-old Shaw, one of 12 rookies on the rebuilding team, cemented his hold on the starting job with the victory.

Honorable mention for offensive performance went to Paul Warfield of the Miami Dolphins and Jim Mitchell of Atlanta and quarterbacks Roman Gabriel and Karl Sweetan of Los Angeles, Bill Munson of Detroit and Bob Berry of Atlanta, among others.

Hartwick Heads Soccer Poll

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — The Hartwick College soccer team held fast Monday to its top position among state teams, in the voting by members of the State Soccer Coaches Rating Board.

The board of 12 coaches has voted only three times in the young season, and Hartwick has been the leader each time among the outstanding 10. Hartwick came out first last season, and has a 3-0 record this season. Several teams among the 10 are undefeated, however.

The teams, their records and their points from the voting, in order:

Hartwick (3-0) 99 points; Brockport (3-0) 82; NYU (2-0) 75; Buffalo State (5-0) 73; Army (3-0) 62; Columbia (4-0) 44; St. Lawrence (3-0) 34; Long Island U (2-1) 33; Adelphia (2-1) 21; and tied at 10th were Cornell (3-1) and RPI (2-1), each with 17 points.

LIU was the only new entry. Incidentally, the board chairman is Garth Stam, who coaches at Oneonta State, not at Hartwick, which also is in Oneonta.

Delay Decision On Increasing High School Sets

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A state decision as to whether high school football seasons should be extended might be held up for several weeks, perhaps until the end of the year, a spokesman said today.

The State Education Department spokesman explained that a main reason for the delay is that school superintendents must be polled about the suggestion that the seasons be changed from eight to nine games.

A department committee put forth the proposal in August. After department executives reach a conclusion, the matter goes to the Board of Regents, governing body of education in the state.

Hartwick (3-0) 99 points; Brockport (3-0) 82; NYU (2-0) 75; Buffalo State (5-0) 73; Army (3-0) 62; Columbia (4-0) 44; St. Lawrence (3-0) 34; Long Island U (2-1) 33; Adelphia (2-1) 21; and tied at 10th were Cornell (3-1) and RPI (2-1), each with 17 points.

LIU was the only new entry. Incidentally, the board chairman is Garth Stam, who coaches at Oneonta State, not at Hartwick, which also is in Oneonta.

Atlanta Five Rate As Knick Threat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Will success spoil the New York Knicks? Probably not. But the Atlanta Hawks might.

With the Milwaukee Bucks departed to the Western Conference, the Knicks can look for the Hawks to supply the main opposition to a shot at their second consecutive National Basketball Association crown.

The Hawks, a rugged rebounding and tough defensive club coached by former New Yorker Richie Guerin, have always given the Knicks trouble, and with the addition of Pete Maravich, 1970-71 should be no different.

While Maravich battles Boston's Dave Cowens and Detroit's Bob Lanier for Rookie of the Year honors, the Knicks and Hawks should win the Atlantic and Central divisions, respectively, and then clash for the Eastern Conference title. New York, however, appears to have a bit too much for the Hawks.

Returning are Player of the Year Willis Reed, All-NBA guard Walt Frazier, Coach of the Year Red Holzman, Dave DeBusschere, Dick Barnett, Bill Bradley and Cazzie Russell.

Three reserves were lost in the expansion draft, but rookies Eddie Mast and Mike Price and returning Phil Jackson, injured the last 1½ years, should be a better bench.

The Knicks still are the best defensive club in the NBA and, with apologies to Maravich, the flashiest.

Maravich will add color and backcourt shooting to the Hawks, and they still have Lou Hudson and Bill Bridges at the forward, and Walt Bellamy, a welcome addition at center last February, will be present the entire year.

But the Hawks could be hurt if Joe Caldwell, a starter and scorer last season, continues his holdout.

Baltimore doesn't play defense or together enough to dislodge either the Knicks or the Hawks, although the Bullets will make the playoffs in the Central with the top two teams in the division qualifying. The Bullets still have Wes Unseld, Gus Johnson and Earl Monroe, but their bench was hard hit in the expansion draft and top college pick George Johnson, 6-11, hasn't looked ready.

Boston, a greatly improved team from the 34-48 club of 1969-70, should be the other playoff team, behind the Knicks, in the Atlantic.

Cowens, a rugged rebounder and sharp shooting 6-9 forward from Florida State, was a prize

No. 1 draft pick, and along with another rookie, Garfield Smith of Eastern Kentucky, a 6-9 center, will bolster last season's weak front court. John Havlicek and Jo Jo White are the top holdovers, providing an excellent backcourt.

Philadelphia, a playoff team last season, will suffer the consequences of Boston's improvement. Hal Greer has slowed into a No. 3 guard, Darrell Imhoff was holding out and Luke Jackson is still bothered by last year's surgery on an Achilles tendon.

Buffalo, despite a fine exhibition season and the best of the expansion teams with former Los Angeles starter Dick Garrett and top college pick John Hummer, needs help up front.

Bob Cousy still hasn't got his kind of team at Cincinnati, although 6-9 Charlie Paulk, acquired in the trade that sent Oscar Robertson to Milwaukee, should help. But Sam Lacy, 6-10 No. 1 draft pick, has had trouble adjusting and Flynn Robinson, who came over with Paulk, hasn't reported.

Bill Fitch at Cleveland has a long season ahead of him with the expansion club, although guard Johnny Warren, picked up from the Knicks, has impressed, along with rookies John Johnson and Gary Suter.

Dear Abby

A Personal Decision

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Will you please explain to my husband what is wrong with parents getting their three-month-old baby girl's ears pierced? We just did, and we have not heard the end of it from his parents and mine, and from a whole lot of relatives, and even some friends who thought they had to tell us what they think about it.

His parents are barely speaking to us, and when they do they get back on the subject of having the baby's ears pierced, and have called us "crazy," "uncivilized," "crude" and "stupid." We have had it.

Do you know when ear piercing started and in what country? I know it's been going on for a long time, and it wasn't considered crazy.

FED UP

DEAR FED: Ear piercing dates back to the early Egyptians, but if you're planning to use that as an argument in support of your action, I'm afraid it won't help you much. What's done is done. But in fairness to the child, you might have waited until she was of an age to have expressed an opinion. After all, they're HER ears.

DEAR ABBY: I shop at a well-known store in town, and on several occasions I've been told by a certain saleslady who usually waits on me that the item I've asked for is not available thru the store — but she can get it for me. And she does. She "orders" it and delivers it to my home personally. It's slightly cheaper than it would have been had I bought it thru the store.

I make the check out to a "trade name," which I imagine she used for this purpose.

The merchandise is O.K., and so is the service, and the price is right. Since the shop couldn't provide me with the item, is this dishonest?

I don't feel right about it because this sales person has asked me not to mention it to the owner of the store. I am not one to cause trouble, but what do you make of this?

MRS. NO NAME

DEAR MRS.: The sales person obviously has her own business going on the side. This is strictly dishonest. Small wonder it's cheaper. She has no overhead. Her employer not only provides her with a place to do business, but with "customers." If you continue to "buy" from her, you are a party to her dirty deal.

DEAR ABBY: Our 23-year-old (married and divorced) daughter is interested in joining a "sensitivity training" group. She has had some psychotherapy, but gave that up because she felt it was too expensive and she wasn't getting anywhere.

From what she tells us about this group (she attended one meeting) it sounds like a wild group of people, shouting obscenities at each other, telling each other off, and there is also a good deal of embracing and cuddling. She says they just do whatever they feel like doing. It's considered healthy.

Do you know anything about these groups?

CONCERNED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: SOME sensitivity training groups are excellent. But I refer only to those groups that are led by professionally qualified leaders. Unfortunately, too many groups are springing up all over the world with leaders who are charlatans and amateurs. Tell your daughter to talk to an expert in the field of mental health, and ask him to check out the group she is considering joining, and she'll know what she's getting into.

DEAR ABBY: Much has been said about men coming to the table "topless" with hairy chests exposed, and I happen to be a man who agrees, it looks terrible. But how many women go around all day in sloppy housecoats and run-over shoes with no makeup on, and they don't bother to fix themselves up a little before their husbands get home? Before marriage they would never have dared to let their boy friends see them that way, but after marriage, they don't care. Also, a man who has had his face scratched while trying to make love to his wife who has brush rollers in her hair has grounds for divorce. I, for one, do not intend to put up with it any longer.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

MOOCHER: (Q.) When my best friend finds out we are going to a movie or out to eat she invites herself to go along. She never brings any money with her. She orders the fanciest thing on the menu. This makes Dad furious.

She eats regularly at our house and stays overnight. I don't eat or stay at her house and don't go out with her family. She is a nice kid but she annoys my family. What can I do about her?—In the Middle in Augusta, Me.

(A.) The next time she invites herself to a movie or dinner with you, tell her you'll go home with her first to get her money. Do it gently and diplomatically, but let her know you are serious.

Also suggest to her that you two should spend part of the time with her family. Tell her it isn't fair to them for her to be at your house all the time.

Any time she makes a mistake in decent behavior, correct her in a kind but firm way. Her parents clearly haven't taught her to be polite and considerate of others.

HELPING HAND? (Q.) What can I do about my big sister? She's jealous of my mother and me. If we ask her boy friend to do something for us she gets mad. We don't ask him to do very much.—Hurt Sister in Kansas.

(A.) A girl usually wants her boy friend to herself. You will understand this better when you grow a little older. In being this way, your sister is not trying to hurt you or your mother, and you should not take it that way.

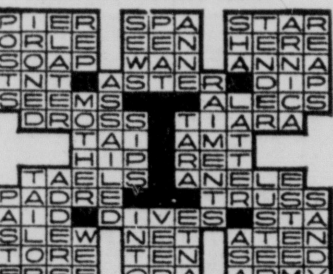

Unless the boy spends most of his time at your house, let your sister have him and enjoy him while he's there.

But if he IS underfoot most of the time, as some boy friends are, he and your sister should pitch in and help with the necessary jobs.

NET—More Money and Talent

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the week when the noncommercial television network takes off on what appears to be a flying start of a new season.

Last year, with "Sesame Street" and "The Forsythe Saga," many viewers who had carefully skipped the educational station within dialing range, tuned in and remained to enjoy and appreciate. This season, public broadcasting has more money and talent going for it than ever before.

A report from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting estimated recently that about three-quarters of the population is within range of some public broadcasting station, although some of the stations are in the UHF zone requiring special antenna for reception.

Along with the returning "Sesame Street" and reruns of "The Forsythe Saga," the public broadcasting stations—around 200 of them—have an impressive list of special treats in store. It even includes a new batch of cooking shows from Julia Child, until recently educational television's one reasonably smash hit.

Tonight, the National Educational Television Network will start broadcasting the impressive 13-part "Civilization" which is Lord Kenneth Clark's illustrated treatment of 1,600 years of Western culture. The ambitious undertaking was created and narrated by Lord Clark, Britain's distinguished art historian.

Work on the series, commissioned by the British Broadcasting Company, occupied Lord Clark and executive producer Michael Gill over a two-year period and carried them through much of Western Europe and to the United States. The finished product was received with unexpected enthusiasm by British audiences and was acquired for use here under a grant by an American corporation.

Also on this week's agenda—Thursday night in most places—is a 90-minute tribute to Helen Hayes: "Portrait of an American Actress." Miss Hayes has been a professional performer for 65 years and will celebrate her 70th birthday on Saturday.

"They had been talking to me—nudging, really—about something like this for five or six years, but I kept pushing it away," Miss Hayes said. "But when they said they wanted to do it as a birthday present, I had to give in."

"I wandered around and talked a lot for two weeks. But it turns out, at least it has fixed in time my garden in my home at Nyack. I worked in it most of the summer and the roses have been really good this year."

It is a lot more than that—still pictures of Miss Hayes at various points in her career: taped interviews in which she reminisces and philosophizes; a segment in which she is directing a play in which she appeared a half century ago; and re-enactments of some of her most famous roles, including Mary of Scotland and Victoria.

Bolivia Skirts a Civil War, Leftist General Is Strongman

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI)—The three-man military junta that replaced President Alfredo Ovando in a bloodless coup toppled early today only hours after it took power in Bolivia.

However, Leftist Gen. Juan Jose Torres, backed by the air force, students, leftwing laborers and a ragtag army of peasants, emerged today as the new strongman of Bolivia in a series of power plays that just skirted civil war.

Torres, who admires but does not actively support Cuba's Fidel Castro, apparently won out when troops loyal to him seized the government palace today and a three-man military junta set up Tuesday collapsed in disorder.

The long festering political chaos in Bolivia came to a head on Sunday when Gen. Regilio Miranda, the conservative army chief of staff, began the process of ousting President Alfredo Ovando Canada. The President resigned Tuesday to avert civil war and the junta was formed.

He had taken over as a civilian president after the death of President Rene Barrientos Ortuño in a helicopter crash April 27, 1969. The military ousted him and installed Ovando as president.

Ovando brought leftists into the government which displeased the military. The leftists were credited with leading him to expropriate the $150 million American-owned Gulf Oil Co., a move which stopped Bolivia's oil exports and shut off government taxes and royalties. Dissatisfaction among the conservatives was so great it was only a matter of time until his ouster Tuesday. President Ovando resigned Tuesday in an announced effort to prevent a civil war after Gen. Rogelio Miranda attempted to oust him. Ovando sought political asylum in the Argentine Embassy and was expected to leave the country.

Miranda, after carrying out the successful coup, himself stepped aside and appointed a three-man junta made up of the commanders of the army, navy and air force. But the junta fell early today when one of the trio, air force chief Gen. Fernando Sartori, resigned.

STEPPING DOWN — Gen. Rogelio Miranda (C) the army chief who led the revolt that ousted Bolivian President Alfredo Ovando, announces Tuesday that he is stepping down from office. He is flanked by Gen. Efraim Guachalla, armed forces chief of staff (L) and air force Gen. Alfredo Sartori. Ovando resigned after a bloodless coup and was replaced by a three-man military junta composed of Guachalla, Sartori and Rear Admiral Albert Albaracin. (UPI RADIOPHOTO).

Eulogies and Approval

Sadat Seems a Certainty

By United Press International

The Egyptian national assembly appeared certain to give its approval today to the nomination of Anwar Sadat as president to replace Gamal Abdel Nasser, clearing the way for a national referendum to put Sadat into power.

The assembly was holding two sessions today—a morning session devoted mostly to eulogies for Nasser, who died Sept. 28, and an afternoon meeting to approve the nomination of Sadat, a 51-year-old longtime friend of the late Egyptian leader. The national referendum was expected to be held Oct. 15 and if it approves Sadat as expected the swearing in will be Oct. 17.

With the situation in Egypt apparently headed towards normalization, diplomatic attention once again focused on the cease-fire along the Suez Canal. Indications were the 90-day truce which began Aug. 7 would be extended at least for another three months by Israel, Egypt and Jordan.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir, in an interview published in the Paris newspaper Figaro, said "Israel's interest lies in prolonging the cease-fire for as long as possible. We didn't accept the truce because we were in a position of weakness. On the contrary."

"But," she added, "it is obvious we should be obliged to re-examine our attitude if we had proof the Egyptians were preparing to restart hostilities. The fact that we are favorable to a prolongation of the truce does not mean that we are ready to talk peace while our adversaries do not respect their undertakings."

In Jordan, Palestinian guerrillas began pulling out of their northern strongholds, leaving the way for the government of King Hussein to take control. Their withdrawal, which started Tuesday and is expected to take three days, was provided for in the truce negotiated by the Arab League.

The main guerrilla strong-point was Irbid, 45 miles north of Amman. UPI correspondent Richard C. Longworth reported from Irbid that guerrillas in camouflaged trucks moved out of the city eastward towards bases near the Israeli frontier.

In Damascus, the guerrilla radio accused the Jordanian government of violating the truce agreement. It said signatory Saeb Salam formed a new 12-man cabinet in Beirut today, rapping and carrying out arrests in Northern Jordan and warned the commandos would mi-the kidnappers' ransom demands were "wholly unreasonable" and would not be met.

But he said he still hoped "some basis can be found for Mr. Cross' safe return. Indeed, I hope the abductors will find a way to establish communications to achieve this."

Sharp told newsmen outside the house, "We would like to talk to them because there are some conditions that we could meet," Sharp said. He did not say what they were.

Radio Station CKLM said a caller there notified them there was a letter for the government in Locker 230 at the Provincial Transport Bus Station in Ottawa.

The letter was found by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

"A caller said they were ignoring the statement from Ottawa, and sticking to their original demands and they must be met by 8 this morning," said Claude Moutin of station CKAC. The government had earlier regarded 8:30 a.m. as the deadline.

Both British Prime Minister Edward Heath and Mrs. Cross were assured that "everything possible" is being done to recover her husband safely, Sharp said.

Montreal Officials Sweat Out Deadline

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canadian government officials sweated out the final hours today toward the deadline set by the separatist kidnappers of a British diplomat. The government refused their ransom demands and the kidnappers replied that they would kill the hostage if necessary.

The diplomat, senior Trade Commissioner James R. Cross—the equivalent of the British consul in Montreal—was abducted from his bed Monday morning by four gunmen from the Front de Liberation Quebecois (FLQ), a clandestine terror group devoted to achieving independence for French-speaking Quebec Province.

In turning down the ransom demands, the government invited the kidnappers to open negotiations. The kidnappers, telephoning Montreal radio stations, said they would hold fast to their demands and left a letter for the government in an Ottawa bus station.

Robert Lemieux, a lawyer who represents arrested FLQ members in court, told a news conference in Montreal, "On the basis of my professional contacts with members of the FLQ for the past three years... I have no doubts that Cross will be executed if the demands are not met."

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, in a dramatic appearance in the House of Commons Tuesday night, said over the past several decades, "an appearance in Pittsburgh, saying the senator had used Nixon as a 'private punching bag.'" Goodell, he said, "has sought flamboyantly and ceaselessly to openly divorce himself" from the President.

Agnew was campaigning for Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who has supported Goodell.

SUNY Boss: Up to School On the Fees

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The presidents of State University branches must assume the responsibility for reviewing the spending of student activity fees at their respective campuses, under terms of an interim arrangement resulting in part from a recent court decision.

In addition, SUNY Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer is to recommend in December "appropriate modifications" that would go into effect after the first semester of this academic year.

The university's trustees settled on this two-step action in a resolution adopted Tuesday by the board's executive committee.

One effect of the trustees' decision is to end the freeze that was put into effect at the Albany State campus, where some students objected to appropriations made by the Student Association for "political" purposes.

State Supreme Court Justice Harold E. Koreman upheld the students who objected to spending practices there and, in effect, said funds that had been collected could not be used until SUNY officials took a more responsible role in overseeing all appropriations.

The funds are collected from students and have been controlled by a representative student group at each campus. In the Albany State challenge, it was argued that some of the money was being earmarked for questionable purposes, such as transportation to an antiwar rally in Washington, D.C., that did not reflect the viewpoints of the majority on the campus.

In addition, State Comptroller Arthur Levitt, who has been auditing student activity budgets at some SUNY campuses, has criticized various fiscal practices and urged tighter supervision.

The trustees indicated that they were responding in their action Tuesday to Koreman's ruling and Levitt's audit reports.

Thus, they said, during the present semester, the chief administrative officer at each campus where activity fees are mandatory are to review and certify appropriations of the representative student organization of their institution.

It must be shown that the appropriations are "of an educational, cultural, recreational or social nature"—and thus in conformity with trustee guidelines—before any funds are disbursed.

There was no reference in the trustees' resolution to political activities.

That part of the action was described as a mechanism under which expenditures of student funds can be approved in compliance with Levitt's proposals and without conflicting with Koreman's order enjoining spending at Albany State.

At last month's meeting of the trustees in New York City, it was decided to give the board's executive committee authority to act in behalf of all the trustees in dealing with the activity fee situation.

The executive committee, in turn, now has directed Boyer to study the fee policies and report back in time for the December meeting of the trustees. The recommendations Boyer makes at that time, if approved by the board, would be the basis for a long-range, system-wide solution to the present dilemma.

Congress Closing For the Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — With many members out campaigning, Congress has decided to recess a week from today and return Nov. 16 for a post-election session its leaders predict will be a disaster.

The lame-duck session—including some members whose successors have been elected—will be the first since early in the Korean War.

Most of the pressure for a recess has come from the House whose 435 seats are up for election Nov. 3.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania had said a post-election session will be a disaster.

Since members know an adjourned session is assured, "it is going to be increasingly difficult to get a quorum" between now and Oct. 14, Scott said.

Attempting to establish an agenda for the remaining days before the recess, Mansfield has put at the top of the calendar a constitutional amendment to guarantee equal rights for women. However, he did not predict the House-passed proposal can win approval before the election.

He said he fears a filibuster against the amendment but hopes to consider it during day-time and act on crime bills, a job-safety measure and other legislation at night.

He called up Tuesday night a bill which sets criminal penalties for drug sales and other crimes, regulates the manufacture and sale of dangerous drugs, and controls drug imports and exports. Debate on the bill is expected to continue through tonight at least.

Mansfield said there is a possibility the Senate may try to pass before the recess a $66.7 billion military appropriation bill approved by the House Appropriations Committee Tuesday.

The House plans to act on it Thursday. The House now is considering an organized crime

Goodell Answers Spiro Agnew; Rocky Asks Hands-Off Policy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Charles E. Goodell accused Vice President Spiro T. Agnew of "divisive rhetoric" Tuesday night while Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller asked the White House to keep out of New York politics.

Agnew has called Goodell, a Republican running for a full term, a member of an "awful liberal-radical coalition" who has left his party. Agnew has supported Conservative party candidate James L. Buckley to the extent of appearing at a fund-raising luncheon on his behalf.

"Such an attack—which by implication casts doubt on my very patriotism and fitness to hold office—raises some questions for the voters of New York," Goodell said at a New York State Liberal party dinner.

He said, "The toughest question facing New Yorkers in this election is whether they are still free to vote their own minds for a candidate whom they feel will best serve their interests—or whether their vote is to be dictated from powerful interests outside the state."

"These powerful interests—represented most dramatically by the vice president's divisive rhetoric—seek to turn back the clock on all the great progressive changes made in this state
